

House Leaders Try to Force Final Vote on Farm Measure

Opponents of 5-Hour Limit on Debate Fight for Delays

CHARGE 'GAG' RULE

Ballot Expected on Bill Late Today or Tomorrow

Washington—(AP)—Administration leaders, bent on jamming the revised farm bill through the house, encountered delaying tactics today.

Representative Lambertson (R-Kans.) forced a quorum call at the opening of the session when Speaker Bankhead counted less than 200 present.

Leaders anticipated other roll calls would be demanded by those incensed at a proposed five-hour limitation on farm bill debate. Bankhead and Majority Leader Rayburn asserted, however, they expected final action late today, or tomorrow, despite the cries—chiefly from Republicans—that a "gag" was being applied.

In the senate, Guffey (D-Pa.) urged opponents of the anti-lynching bill to permit it to come to a vote so the supreme court might pass on its constitutionality.

He said the opponents "should not, as members of this body, usurp the functions of the judiciary."

Meets Opposition

Preceding debate on the farm bill itself, the rules committee asked house members to agree to vote on the bill after five hours' discussion, without amending it or objecting to individual provisions.

Representative Martin (R-Mass.), assistant minority leader, said, "if that isn't a gag rule there never was."

Representatives Short (R-Mo.) charged that the administration was attempting to "crum down our throats a 121-page bill which members had not had time to examine."

Representative Pace (D-Ga.) said that he could not figure out some parts of the complicated measure after 60 hours of study.

Changes in Measure

Some Democrats joined Republicans and Progressives in declaring that the measure differed materially from either the senate or house bills passed in December. A joint committee was appointed before Christmas to draw up a compromise, which it completed Friday.

Chairman Jones (D-Texas) said yesterday that the revised measure conformed generally to the original house bill, but many members disagreed. Jones said immediate enactment was necessary if crop control provisions were to become effective before the planting season begins.

The greatest controversy was over the McNary-Boileau amendment, designed to prevent land taken from soil-depleting crops from being used to feed dairy cattle.

The conference committee modified the provision, leading a number of members from dairy states to declare their opposition to the entire bill. They said the modification would permit the spread of dairying to new regions and thus increase competition.

If the house approves the farm bill, it probably will be taken up by the senate tomorrow. After its consideration in that chamber, administration leaders expect to propose shelving of the anti-lynching bill.

The southern filibuster against that measure was continuing today, although Senator Bilbo (D-Miss.) agreed to interrupt his address so that Senator Guffey (D-Pa.) could speak in favor of the bill.

Plans Early Decision On Phone Rate Case

Madison—(AP)—Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann has indicated he will announce a decision soon in the Wisconsin telephone company rate case to which he has devoted his full attention since December.

State officials interested in the case noted that Judge Hoppmann must be nearly through studying the voluminous record because he has scheduled trials beginning next Tuesday on appeals from public service commission orders in municipal acquisition cases.

The appeals involve acquisition proceedings at Waupaca, Shullsburg, Adams and Medford.

Marriage Under Fire

When bombs are bursting in Madrid it is the married women who bear troubles better than anybody else, says a report from Spain. And of course, the longer they've been married, the less they worry. There's nothing like getting used to a thing. So, ye bachelors, as soon as the Japs start shelling the Plainfields, Dunellen, etc., run for a marriage license. Good apts. will still be rented thru 'The Post-Crescent classified wanted.' This one was well aimed:

Lehman Asks Defeat of Lake Diversion Measure

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman today urged defeat of a federal proposal to legalize an annual average diversion of 5,000 cubic feet a second of Lake Michigan water to the Mississippi river.

He asserted it would constitute "an invasion of the sovereign and proprietary rights of New York" in four great waters.

The pending bill is sponsored by Representative Claude V. Parsons, Illinois.

Lehman, in a letter to J. J. Mansfield, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors, pointed out that the present diversion of 5,000 cubic feet per second at Chicago would be limited to 1,500 cubic feet after Dec. 31, 1938, by United States Supreme court order.

Youths Fight Murder, Train Robbery Charges

Las Cruces, N. M.—(AP)—Apprentice charged by two months in jail, Henry Lorenz, 22, and Harry Dwyer, 27, gave notice they would fight charges of murder and train robbery preferred against them for a fantastic Thanksgiving day holdup of a transcontinental liner.

Called before Circuit Judge Numa Frenger in chambers yesterday both youths said they expected to have counsel when they appear in court today to hear their trial date set. Judge Frenger indicated the case would go on the calendar for the week of Feb. 21.

Both charges are punishable by death.

Black River Falls, Wis.—(AP)—Cam- eron L. Baldwin of LaCrosse, federal referee in bankruptcy, suffered fractures of both wrists in a head-on automobile collision near here last night in which two other men were injured.

Baldwin was riding with a member of his law firm, Reginald Nitsch, when their car and one driven by William Bludorn of Eau Claire collided.

Nitsch suffered a broken kneecap and Bludorn a broken collarbone.

ROWBOAT RESCUE SQUADS ON DUTY IN MILWAUKEE

A rescuer by rowboat, Clarence L. Rauschenberger (far right), town of Milwaukee supervisor, helped Bernard Hill and Bernice Colby (left to right) from their water-bound Milwaukee township house. Scores were driven from residences in nearby areas as swollen rivers overflowed their boundaries. Floodwaters were receding today in Wisconsin, but thaws brought threats to many Michigan and western Ontario communities.

Flood Threats Renewed as Thaws Cause Rivers to Rise

New Roof Is Built Over Chimney; It Isn't New Any More

Menasha—When the Ben Kropidowski family moved into the residence at 541 Fifth street they thought that they were settled for the residence had been newly remodeled. However, kindling a fire in the kitchen stove last night caused a blaze with damage estimated at $600 for there was no outlet to the chimney.

The chimney had been cut down below the roof level in the remodeling and a new roof placed over the open chimney top. The sparks from the kitchen fire ignited the beams of the attic over the kitchen. The flames spread through the second floor partitions into the large attic and offered stubborn resistance to the firemen.

Firemen battled the blaze for over an hour and a half. The Kropidowski fire, which came at 7:40 last night, followed shortly after the department made a run at 6:20 when an automobile owned by John Bunda, 205 Prospect street, backfired and blazed briefly.

Two Laundry Plants Arc Bombed at Detroit

Detroit—(AP)—Two Detroit laundry plants were bombed today by police guards were ordered immediately at four other establishments.

The Pioneer Laundry and Cleaning company and Sterling Laundry company own the plants that were bombed. The Pioneer plant is located in McGraw avenue and the Sterling company in E. Ferry avenue, widely separated sections of the city.

Executives of the damaged laundries said they had no labor disputes, had indulged in no price cutting and had not laid off any men during the recession.

The blast at the Pioneer plant knocked over a policeman a block away, set fire to the building, smashed dozens of windows and threw people from their beds in the neighborhood. The fire loss was small.

At the Sterling plant damage was less extensive.

Dr. Garr Is Freed Of Murder Charge

Dismissal Ends Cases
Growing Out of Taylor
And Denhardt Deaths

Shelbyville, Ky.—(AP)—The last murder charge resulting from the tragic deaths of 40-year-old Verna Garr Taylor and her 61-year-old fiancé, Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt, was wiped off court records today.

A murder indictment against Dr. E. S. Garr, last of Mrs. Taylor's three brothers to face charges resulting from the slaying of Denhardt, was dismissed.

Denhardt, tempestuous soldier-politician and former lieutenant governor, was slain here last Sept. 20 by Roy Garr, a brother of the comely widow, on the eve of his second trial charged with her murder. His first trial last April had ended in a hung jury.

Roy Garr, pleading self-defense, was acquitted by a jury last October after his younger brother, Jack, had been freed on peremptory instructions from Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall.

Dr. Garr, veterinarian and World War veteran, the third brother present the night Denhardt was shot to death, was in a sanitarium for mental treatment at the time of Roy's trial.

At Denhardt's trial the prosecution tried to prove jealousy as the motive and the defense claimed Mrs. Taylor shot herself with Denhardt's pistol because her daughters and brothers opposed her marrying him.

Three Hurt When Cars Crash Into Each Other

Black River Falls, Wis.—(AP)—Cameron L. Baldwin of LaCrosse, federal referee in bankruptcy, suffered fractures of both wrists in a head-on automobile collision near here last night in which two other men were injured.

Baldwin was riding with a member of his law firm, Reginald Nitsch, when their car and one driven by William Bludorn of Eau Claire collided.

13 Killed When Soviet Dirigible Hits Mountain While Making Trial Flight

Moscow—(AP)—The hope of rescuing Russia's four polar scientists from their drifting ice floe cost 13 lives in the crash of the soviet dirigible V6, it was disclosed today.

The V6 crashed into a mountain during a snow storm Sunday in the Kandalaksha region near the White sea while on a trial flight from Moscow to Murmansk and return.

The trip was preparatory to joining the rescue expeditions to aid the four scientists whose imperiled floe now is about 50 miles off the east coast of Greenland.

Three ice-breaker ships were converging today on the Greenland sea area where the polar scientists are stranded, and a fourth was about to join in the search. The ships had aboard eight planes, vari-

Robber Gang Is Not Implicated In Murder Case

Ballistics Expert's Report
Clears Bandits in Bornstein Case

Madison—(AP)—Cleared of suspicion of murder in the report of a ballistics expert, Palmer Swenby, 19, of Cambridge and two members of his "stocking cap" robber gang were held in the Dane county jail tonight for sentence on several lesser charges.

Detective Lieutenant John Arnold announced Swenby, Vernon Torbleau, 20, and Melvin Johnson, 23, were not implicated in the killing here several months ago of Oscar Bornstein, 43, filling station attendant.

Arnold said tests made by Prof. J. H. Matthews, crime expert of the University of Wisconsin faculty, showed no similarity between the rifling of weapons taken from the young robbers and marks on the bullet that a hooded gunman fired into Bornstein's body.

Defers Sentences

Dane county's claim to prosecute the gang was strengthened late yesterday when the trio, together with Gladys Ramey, 19, Shorewood, pleaded guilty to an assortment of charges before Judge Roy Proctor in superior court. Sentences were deferred to permit further investigation.

Police Chief William H. McCormick has announced Swenby confessed he shot and wounded Har-

Tries to Show $63,000 Fund Paid Dinneen

Byllesby Company Books Show Expenditure of That Amount

AUDITOR GIVES DATA Spohn Attempts to Prove Entire Amount Went To Dinneen

Madison—(AP)—An auditor summoned by special state counsel testified at the William M. Dinneen tax hearing today that he had found on the books of the H. M. Byllesby Utility Holding company an expenditure of $63,000 in salary in connection with its purchase of the Wisconsin Valley Electric company in 1928.

Attorney William H. Spohn attempted to trace all of this money to Dinneen, former secretary of the state public service commission, as part of alleged unreported income on which he has been assessed $80,000 of additional taxes.

Dinneen, on the witness stand in his appeal to the county board of tax review, denied he had received the entire $63,000 but said he could not reconcile bank entries which apparently linked him with the use of a large part of the money.

The board recessed the hearing until Feb. 23 to give the attorneys opportunity to study the record.

Dinneen's Statement

The former secretary, who has admitted that he kept between $18,000 and $20,000 of cash in lock boxes, in addition to his bank accounts, back as far as 1928, testified today he had only $1,000 left in the lock boxes and that his real estate consists only of his $20,000 home here.

A. R. Colbert, public service commission auditor who examined the Byllesby books, listed three accounts of funds spent in connection with the Wisconsin Valley Electric acquisition.

Records show that $45,000 was paid to the late Robert C. O'Malley, Madison banker, with whom Dinneen had dealings.

Dinneen had admitted he got $18,500 in Byllesby funds as a loan from Halford Erickson, former member of the sold railroad commission and $15,000 from O'Malley as a gift.

He flatly denied, however, that all of the $45,000 went from O'Malley to him, although bank records showed that as the amounts credited to O'Malley in certificates of deposit decreased he had purchased securities simultaneously and in identical amounts.

U.S., Britain Have No Agreement 'Relating to War,' Hull Tells Senate

'World Conditions' Force Japanese to Expand Armament

Tokio War Minister Makes Specific Reference to Soviet Russia

Tokio—(AP)—War Minister General Sugiyama told a Japanese diet budget subcommittee today that "world conditions" necessitate expansion of Japan's armament. He referred specifically to Soviet Russia.

"Armament must be considered from the standpoint of conditions surrounding the empire," the war minister declared.

"The Soviet Union has been absorbed in expanding armament year after year. It is my opinion that conditions force the empire (Japan) to expand our armament also."

General Sugiyama said Soviet Russia has 1,500 airplanes in the Far East, "the majority of them in the maritime provinces."

Newspapers frequently have published estimates of the strength of Russia's air force, but this was the first official pronouncement.

Asked by a diet member whether Japan's air force were adequate, Sugiyama said Japan was bolstering her military air strength through the development of a civil aviation program.

Under this program the nation would have 5,000 civilian pilots as a reserve for war, and a total air strength of nearly 10,000 pilots, navigators and mechanics.

"When the program is fulfilled," Sugiyama said, "our strength will be adequate."

JUDGE RESIGNS

Wausau—(AP)—Judge A. H. Reid of the sixteenth judicial circuit, has resigned from the bench, effective March 1, because of ill health. It was learned here today in a letter from Phoenix, Ariz., where he has been for several months for his health.

Judge Reid was appointed to the bench in 1908 to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge W. C. Silverthorn of Wausau. He has held the office ever since. The circuit is comprised of Marathon, Lincoln, Oneida and Vilas counties. His resignation has been sent to Governor LaFollette.

No Naval Pact With Any Power, Secretary Writes

ANSWERS 3 QUERIES

Letter to Pittman Prompted by John- son Resolution

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Hull in a letter to Senator Pittman (D-Nev.) denied today that the United States had any agreement with Great Britain "relating to war or the possibility of war."

The secretary of state also denied that this country is bound by any agreement with any power in connection with operations of the navy.

Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, read Hull's letter to the senate. It gave the specific answer "no" to three questions which Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) had framed in a resolution offered the senate yesterday.

Johnson had asked whether there was an "understanding" between the United States and Great Britain regarding measures to be taken in the event of war; whether there was any alliance which would call for use of the navy "in conjunction with any other country"; and whether there was an agreement by which the navy would do patrol duty in any particular ocean or section of an ocean.

Dirigibles Question

Pittman previously had predicted that the foreign relations committee would support Johnson's request for the information.

Pittman read the letter a short time after Admiral William D. Leahy had said the United States could "very profitably" engage in development of dirigibles, but advocated leaving such experimentation to commercial agencies for the present.

The Navy's chief of operations, testifying for the seventh consecutive day on the proposed $800,000,000 naval expansion program, told the house naval committee the navy should disregard lighter-than-air craft at this time because no other navy is developing them and other types of equipment are more urgently needed.

Revival of the long-standing congressional controversy of airplane versus battleship by Representative Maas (R-Minn.) brought a declaration from Leahy that the battleship is the "bulwark of defense and offense."

Hawaii Endangered

Questioned by Representative McGrath (D-Calif.) concerning the safety of the Hawaiian islands and other insular possessions, Leahy said it would be "comparatively easy" for an enemy to seize them if the navy was rendered ineffective. He said, however, loss of the Hawaiian islands would not necessarily make invasion of the continental United States easy.

A suggestion by Representative Jenks (R-N.H.) that the proposed 20 per cent increase could be halved without impairing the nation's defenses brought a quick challenge from Leahy.

The admiral added, however, that the navy would be the first to ask for discontinuance of the program "when and if world conditions warrant."

Johnson was on his feet as soon as Pittman finished reading Hull's letter. He said it would serve to clear up rumors going about the capitol that this country had various foreign alliances secretly made and influential in the determination of its foreign policy.

"We have now," Johnson said, "the explicit denial of the secretary of state in reference to all rumors of agreements, understandings and alliances."

He added that the secretary's letter was "the way we ought to deal with" such reports and expressed his "compliments to Hull for the prompt response to the resolution."

Pittman inquired whether Johnson intended to withdraw his resolution. The California senator replied:

House Liberals In Attack on Tax Revision Program

One Member of Bloc Calls Proposals 'Wall Street Version'

Washington —(AP)— One of the house liberals who laid before President Roosevelt demands for heavier taxes on big corporations said today that tax revisions being worked out by a house committee were "nothing short of the Wall Street version."

Representative McFarlane (D-Texas), who was the group's tax spokesman at the White House yesterday, declared that the committee's program thus far disclosed was "unsatisfactory not only to our group but to others informed on taxation."

The committee expects to recommend within two or three weeks substantial modifications of the excess profits and capital gains taxes. Both of these levies have been criticized by business interests.

McFarlane said the liberal group was "willing to go along with tax revision to relieve small corporations according to their needs as shown by government records."

Can't Determine Need. "But we can't even find out what their needs are," he added, "because we can't get the information from the revenue department."

The liberals, led by the White House by Representative Mawerick (D-Texas), recommended modification of the undistributed profits tax to permit small corporations that need capital to "accumulate minimum reserves" from tax-free earnings.

The capital gains tax, they said, should be strengthened and revised to take a bigger slice out of the "gains of the successful" but to make greater allowance for "the losses of the unsuccessful."

A tax on all stock dividends, payable by stockholders, also was advocated, and the group expressed opposition to a federal sales tax.

Mawerick said 39 house members approved the tax proposals. Most of the group are Democrats, and the remainder are Wisconsin Progressives and Minnesota Farmers Laborites. They have maintained a loosely-knit organization, but this was the first time they have presented a formal program.

Other Proposals. In addition to their tax recommendations, they advocated:

Enactment of a wage-hour bill, a "cost of production" farm bill, a permanent public works program, a national "land use" program, expansion of the social security system, nationalization of the federal reserve banks, a "simplified system" of federal credit agencies, a plan "for increasing and regularizing industrial production," and immediate federal work relief for all unemployed.

Those attending the conference said Mr. Roosevelt accorded the delegation a "courteous hearing" but gave no expression of his attitude toward its proposals.

Two Autos and Truck Damaged in Accident

Three machines were damaged but no one was injured in an accident about 5:30 yesterday afternoon on old Highway 41 just inside the northeast city limits, according to county police.

Drivers driven by Robert Lembecke, 915 N. Fox street, and Miss Mary Ann Krueger, route 2, Kaukauna, collided and the Krueger machine swerved into the path of a truck driven by John Forbes, Green Bay, the highway patrolman reported. Miss Krueger was driving east and Lembecke and Forbes west at the time of the accident.

still were closed by floodwaters, but the water was receding elsewhere in the state.

In Michigan, floodwaters were receding in smaller streams, which caused most of the damage yesterday, but the larger streams, into which they empty, were rising. The Saginaw river was rising but Saginaw city officials predicted it would fall a foot short of flood stage. Thousands of acres of lowlands above and below the city were under water.

Flood conditions at Sebawaing and Mt. Clemens, Mich., the worst in years in the vicinity of the latter city, appeared to have abated.

FLOODS REDEED IN STATE. Milwaukee —(AP)—Weekend flood waters which boiled over lowlands adjoining southern Wisconsin rivers and streams had subsided today toward normal levels. Barring further rains, the excess water was expected to have disappeared completely within 48 hours.

The forecast by the weather bureau at Milwaukee, however, was for rain changing to snow in the southern portion of the state.

Kenosha county today remained the hardest hit of the inundated areas, with six county trunk highways impassable and state highway 50 closed for another two days. The highway commission reported up to two feet of water on Highway 50. The flood caused by the Fox river backing up, however, had gone down 12 inches since yesterday.

The Rock river overflow near Janesville and Beloit was considerably alleviated, with a short detour

SCORES HOMELESS AS MICHIGAN RIVERS OVERFLOW

Residents of the Mt. Clemens, Mich., suburban section, shown in this airview taken from the Detroit News plane, fled their homes when the Clinton river, its mouth choked by ice, swirled far out of its banks. Receding waters encouraged residents of the endangered areas in Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois, however.

Salvation Army Drive Captains To Name Workers

Teams Will Be Selected For Annual Campaign For $4,000

Selection of team workers for the annual home service appeal of the Salvation Army will be made at a meeting of major and team captains Wednesday evening at the army temple. With its goal set at $4,000, the appeal will be launched at a dinner Tuesday evening, Feb. 15, using the valentine slogan, "Have a Heart."

E. W. Shannon, the Rev. G. H. Blum, Horace L. Davis, Jr., and John Trautmann, all members of the citizen's advisory board, have accepted division chairmanships and are selecting team captains for the canvass of the business district. George Nolting will head the out-of-town corporations division. The organization also will include advance gifts, women's and industrial divisions, whose majors and general chairman for the appeal will be announced soon. This entire week will be devoted to completion of personnel and preparation of material for the workers.

Each team worker will be supplied with a detailed financial statement of the Salvation Army's operations locally, so the prospective giver may be fully informed as to the use of the money furnished by the community. Captain T. A. Raber, corps officer, has announced.

An especially interesting aspect is the fact that the army raises its money through its own activities, approximately half of the annual sum required. The community budget of $40,000 takes care of the remainder, largely in the field of relief and social service.

If the receipts are generous enough, the corps sends an appropriation to the divisional headquarters at Milwaukee to help maintain institutions whose services are of a statewide nature, and are used by each local community.

APPROVE TOLL BRIDGE

Washington —(AP)—The house passed a bill yesterday authorizing the city of Rock Island to construct a toll bridge over the Mississippi river, joining Rock Island and Davenport, Iowa. The measure goes to the senate.

near Milton on Highway 26 the only remaining road tieup.

Dynamiting of ice jams on the upper Milwaukee river continued today when fresh barriers of broken ice floes caused the water to rise swiftly again after a temporary ebb from the weekend floods.

Some residents reported the water rose as much as 10 inches last night. William F. Cavanaugh, highway commissioner, said none of the bridges across the Milwaukee was in danger, however.

RIVER STILL BLOCKED. Sterling, Ill. —(AP)—Although ice practically choked the Rock river for 80 miles between here and Rock Island today, a gradual drop in river stage was reported by communities along the stream.

Higher temperatures and a prediction of rain tonight caused some apprehension, however. Colder weather was forecast for tomorrow. The factory district here, where operations at six plants were stopped or curtailed, still was under water and state highways 78 and 2 were closed.

A 3-inch overnight rise in the Pecatonica river at Freeport, where eight families fled from their homes late yesterday, put the stage at 15.04 feet, about two feet under the all-time high water mark.

Employees of a factory on Freeport's east side, most seriously affected, went to work in boats. An earth dike was built around one large plant.

Flood waters and fire combined to cause damage at Galena. The contents of three oil tanks were consumed by flames believed started by friction in an electric motor being used to pump out flooded areas.

Sectionalism in State Functions Is Becoming Cause of Grave Concern

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—A problem which was recognized by the more astute students of state affairs as far back as 10 or 20 years ago, which will be one of the biggest hurdles to confront the men who run the state government a decade from now, is now cause for considerable private concern by the big-wigs in the state capitol.

That problem, briefly stated, is sectionalism, in which one geographic section of the state with its economic interests, is arrayed against an equally important rival geographic area and its interests.

Just as sectional differences in an earlier era divided the northern and southern states in the United States so is a wedge gradually being driven between the northern and southern sections of Wisconsin. While it is slow and unspectacular, it is nevertheless significant, serious, and already subject to investigation by the sociologically inclined.

The basis of the division is economic, and involves such vital factors as taxation, production, public expenditures, and private income.

South Is Wealthier. Students of the problem illustrate it by drawing an imaginary line from Green Bay southward across the state to LaCrosse. South of that line, in a general way, it may be said is the wealthier section of Wisconsin. North of the line are the poorer counties, the barren, cut-over lands of the far north, the depressed mine sections on the southern shore of Lake Superior, and the poor soil areas in central Wisconsin.

South of the demarcation are the wealthiest industrial sections of the state, the Fox river valley, the southeastern metropolitan section, and the lake shore ports. South of it also are the richest farm lands in Wisconsin, the best farmers and the farmers with the biggest incomes.

North of the line are the abandoned lumber towns, the poorest farmers, the biggest relief loads, the poorest and least productive farm lands, and the counties with staggering loads of tax delinquencies.

Rich Income Source. South of the line is the richest source of the state's tax income. Here are the largest numbers of automobiles, and thus the largest source of motor vehicle and gasoline tax fees. Here are the biggest incomes and estates, therefore the biggest state collections of estate and income taxes. Here are the state's manufacturing establishments, rich source of corporate taxes.

But north of the line are the poorest town and county governments, and the biggest local debts and exhausted treasuries. From that section comes a perpetual clamor for state aids, more state aids, year after year, aids for schools, highways, local real estate reduction, old age and other pensions and currently, for relief.

And here comes the rub. The former area controls the legislature, by weight of numbers, votes taxes which are paid by residents of the southern section, to provide revenue for the less well to do northern section.

The latest and best example is the $3,000,000 emergency relief appropriation which is waiting to be tapped by the state administration. Despite a furious fight by the southern area legislators, the relief act was passed with a provision that the fund be doled out where it is needed.

ed most, which means, as it has always meant, the tier of 25 or 30 extreme northern counties. The tax which financed the relief appropriation, however, on inheritances, will be borne mainly by the southern, southern, and Fox river valley counties, according to past experiences with inheritance taxes in Wisconsin.

North Gets Break. Late compilations of state finances by the state tax commission show that some counties pay to the state several times the amount of state aids they receive from the state in return. Thus typical counties in the southern section, Brown and Outagamie pay in state taxes twice the amount they receive from the state treasury annually. But in some northern counties this situation is reversed and more; they receive twice as much as they contribute.

This situation has resulted in numerous complaints from southern Wisconsin taxpayers in recent years. Taxpayers' groups have protested, and suggested remedies, but it is still a problem, and promises to continue indefinitely.

Various solutions have been suggested. For years governmental and school consolidations have been urged by interested students of the problem as a road toward economy in some of the most impoverished northern counties. But despite a campaign of more than a decade, there has been a hardly perceptible progress in school consolidation, despite the fact that frequently schools are maintained for one, two, or three students in the remote districts, at tremendous expense to the state which contributes the amount the local districts cannot raise.

Consolidation Fought. Every step toward consolidation of local government has been fought in late years. Counties in the north which have but a fraction of the population, wealth, and resources of their southern neighbors maintain a full courthouse of officials, a court house, a jail, a coroner's office, a sheriff's office, and a board of supervisors. Local officialdom has a very real grievance against advocates of consolidation; they fear the loss of their jobs.

Lately the federal government has augmented the rehabilitation work which the state began. Families have been removed from marginal lands, and even submarginal lands, and transplanted to other farms where they have an even chance to make a living. Federal relief has supported thousands of residents in the far north since the New Deal. But the essential problem remains.

Many citizens in northern Wisconsin continue to be supported in large part by their wealthier neighbors in the southern section of the state, and it is becoming increasingly evident that the latter group doesn't like it, and will soon demand that something be done about it.

City's Fire Loss Totaled $72,408 During Last Year

Appleton's fire loss was $72,408.53 in 1937, the largest since 1907 with the exception of two years, 1926 and 1930, according to a report of Fire Chief George P. McGillan. Of the total loss, $50,630.34 was to buildings and $21,778.19 to contents of buildings.

The fire loss in 1936 was $17,052.52 and in 1935 $17,167.77. In 1928, the year the Zuelke building burned, the fire loss amounted to $182,544.09. The 1930 fire loss was $91,685.02.

Two $25,000 fires, one in January and the other in December, were largely responsible for the big fire loss last year. The first was the burning of two business buildings at 133 and 135 E. College avenue which housed a store and a candy shop. The second was the fire at Castle hall, Knights of Pythias building.

309 Alarms. Firemen answered 309 alarms during the year. There were 270 calls received by telephone while 22 were made through the box alarms. The department answered 11 false alarms during the year. Eleven runs were made outside the city limits. Four inhalator calls also were made. Firemen made 2,079 inspections in the fire districts and 83 defects were reported. A total of 12,104 inspections was made in the residential districts and 60 defects were reported.

Following are causes and the number of calls made by the department for the year: grass fires 48, chimney fires 44, rubbish fires 24, roof fires started from chimney sparks 22, overheated stove pipes 12, false alarms 11, fires caused by cigarettes 11, smoke escaping into buildings 10, short circuits in automobiles 10, unknown 9, spontaneous combustion 8, electric motors 6, gasoline stoves 6, back fires in automobiles 5, escaping steam thought to be smoke 4, rescue of animals 4, tar kettle boiling over 3, gas stoves 3, grease burning on stoves 3, defective electric wiring, sparks from switch engine, unprotected stove, materials too close to furnace, electric flat irons, children playing with matches, kerosene stoves, defective wiring in automobiles, bon fires, electric torch, unprotected hot air stack, high tension lines falling on alarm system, helping locked out persons to enter building and unscreened fire places, 2 each.

Other Causes. Sparks from open stove, incendiary, fire cracker, overheated bearing on fan, ashes in wood container, blow torch, car heater, oil spilled on street lighting, gas leak, defective smoke pipe, short circuit, back fire in motor engine, cleaning with gasoline, emergency brake on automobile overheating, overheated stove, overheated car motor, collision of automobile, steam pipe, car battery, scolding furnace, breaking of sprinkler head, auto running into canal and removing flag pole 1 each.

Following are fires and causes reported by fire adjusters and for which the department was not called out: fire caused by cigarettes 12, carelessness with matches 8, electric flat irons 5, oil burners 3, grease boiling over onto stove 2, paraffin boiling over 2, smoke escaping from building 2, candle, gas, defective electric wiring, automobile, short in electric range, car cracker, using electric lamp as bed warmer, careless smoker, children playing with stove, hot coals falling from stove, unknown, incense burner, explosion of coal stove, fire in rubbish, defective electric light cord, 1 each.

School Treasurer Must Furnish Bond, Ruling

Madison —(AP)—Attorney General O. S. Loomis advised the state superintendent of public instruction today he may refuse to certify state aid to a school district whose treasurer fails to furnish the bond required by law.

A treasurer who does not keep separate accounts of school funds as the law demands may be prosecuted for malfeasance but state aid may not be withheld for that reason, Loomis said.

Johnston, declaring Americans have the right to know the administration's foreign policy, said yesterday.

"They should be informed if anything is in existence that will lead or tend to lead this nation into war," he said.

Senators LaFollette (P-Wis.), Bone (D-Wash.) and Nye (R-N.D.) said they favored Johnson's resolution.

Wants Statement. LaFollette expressed the belief that the state department's request to Japan for information on its naval program was a "build up" for the $800,000,000 naval expansion bill now before congress.

Senator LaFollette asserted "the obligation rests on the administration to give a full and frank statement of American foreign policy."

He declared he was opposed to "implicating any foreign policy that will involve us in war."

(Although reports from Tokyo indicated the state department's request would not be answered officially, a foreign office spokesman declared that Japan has no plan for building 43,000-ton battleships.)

House members also were discussing the administration's foreign policy. Rep. Sauthoff (P-Wis.) introduced a resolution asking President Roosevelt whether he intends "to pursue the historic policy of the United States as laid down by Washington." There has been confusion, he declared, over the administration's intentions.

Hoffman Herd Is High Producer in New Association

Averages 35 Pounds of Butterfat for First Month's Record

The newly organized Outagamie County Livestock Improvement association, No. 6, completed its first month of testing in January. The herd of Fred Hoffman, Oneida, took first honors with an average of 35 pounds of butterfat per cow.

Twenty-seven farmers in the towns of Seymour, Osborn and Oneida are members of the association. Officers of the group are John Appleton, Oneida, president; Elmer Kimball, Osborn, secretary and treasurer; John J. Freiman, Oneida; George Peotter, Seymour, and Theodore Van Boxtel, Oneida, directors. Anton Adamski, route 2, Seymour, is the fieldman.

The herds of John Finner, Osborn, and John Phillipsen, Oneida, were second and third in testing with averages of 33.1 and 33 pounds of butterfat respectively.

The high cow, a grade Guernsey owned by Fred Hoffman, Oneida, produced 1,221 pounds of milk testing 5.9 making 72 pounds of butterfat. Nic Vandervort had a grade Holstein producing 64.8 pounds of butterfat for second place. Bernard Vandenberg's grade Guernsey produced 62.9 pounds of butterfat for third.

The following members had cows producing 40 pounds or more of butterfat for the month: Fred Krahn, 2 cows; Lester Krahn, 2 cows; Alvin Prellip, 5 cows; Frank Appleton, 3 cows; Fred Hoffman, 8 cows; Nick Vande Vort, 3 cows; Theodore Van Boxtel, 1 cow; John Phillipsen, 2 cows; Bernard Vandenberg, 4 cows; Christ Cleven, 1 cow; William Vandenberg, 4 cows; George Peotter, 1 cow; Joseph Appleton, 3 cows; Elmer Gehlke, 3 cows; Roy Thomas, 3 cows; Phillip Engel, 1 cow; Joseph Rusch, 1 cow. A total of 60 cows produced 40 pounds of butterfat or better for the month.

old Bloomington police officer, in an attempted tavern holdup at Beaver Dam, officials of Dodge county and several other southern Wisconsin communities vainly sought custody of the group.

Svenby and Torbelle pleaded guilty to charges of stealing automobiles, holding up a tavern in Belleville and breaking and entering with intent to burglarize. Minimum penalties of 30 years in prison are possible on conviction.

Denies Car Theft. Johnson pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a stolen automobile in Madison, but denied he stole the machine. The charge carries a penalty of one to five years.

Miss Ramey, accused by District Attorney Lyall Berge of being with Svenby at least three nights before his arrest here Sunday, pleaded guilty to a charge of lewd and lascivious conduct. Berge said the girl may be sent to the state institution for women at Taycheedah.

Svenby's brother, Bjarne, 16, is held on a burglary charge at Janesville.

AWAITS HEARING

Janesville —(AP)—Bjarne Svenby, 16, farm youth from the town of Bloomington, Grove in Dane county, awaited preliminary hearing today in municipal court on a charge of assault and theft while armed in connection with a gasoline station holdup Jan. 23.

Although police said young Svenby signed a confession to participation in the holdup, he entered a plea of innocent to the charge against him when arraigned yesterday.

The police said Svenby named as his companion on the Janesville job his older brother, Palmer Svenby, 19, who with several companions is being held at Madison in connection with a series of southern Wisconsin holdups in recent weeks.

Madison Man Will Retain His Post As Head of FDIC

Report Crowley Turned Down Job as President Of Big Bank

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Washington — Leo T. Crowley of Madison has given up, for the time being, any idea of resigning as chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

It is known that, within the last two weeks, he turned down a job as president of a big bank, at a salary of $40,000 the first year and $50,000 the second year. His government job pays him $10,000 a year.

President Roosevelt wants him to remain.

Crowley's career in Washington has been remarkable.

When he was first nominated for the post, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan republican, held up confirmation for a few days, to investigate his connection with the failed bank which he had headed in Madison.

A year later, when he was re-nominated, Vandenberg stood in the senate and made his "apology" to the senate for ever having doubted Crowley, and praised his work.

He has the complete confidence of senators and congressmen, as well as of the president, and likewise the confidence of the bankers with whom his daily work is.

One of the reasons for this is his cheerful willingness, at all times, to give officials information they need, and his obvious complete knowledge of every aspect of the banking problems with which he deals.

Advisor to President
He is a political advisor of the president, too, particularly in bringing about cooperation between the administration and the Wisconsin Progressives and northwestern Farmer - Laborites.

Although a Democrat, he is very friendly with the LaFollettes and a firm believer in some of their political philosophy. Some of the "regular" Democrats in Wisconsin and Minnesota have been very angry with him at times for this reason.

A handsome bachelor with thick wavy white hair, Crowley lives very quietly in a suite at the Mayflower hotel here, takes little part in Washington social life, travels considerably addressing bankers' conventions and visiting Wisconsin, and is sought out by almost everybody who comes to Washington from Wisconsin.

His first federal job was with the farm credit administration at St. Paul. He became chairman of the FDIC in February, 1934.

He was born at Milton Junction, Wis., but does not reveal exactly when, and educated in Milton Junction and Madison public schools and the University of Wisconsin.

His first job was with the General Paper and Supply company, of which he is now president.

Boy Scouts and Their Troops

Very often it occurs that a boy wishes to carry on in the realm of scouting, and yet feels that he is too old to associate and compete with a group of younger scouts. This type of problem, however, has been effectively solved by the formation of separate patrols, organized especially for older boys.

The most recent older boys patrol to have been organized as a result of the Pioneer scout movement, is the new Pioneer patrol of Troop 26, Marion. The list of Pioneer enthusiasts who are enrolled in the new patrol at present includes five star scouts, a number of scouts who have attained first and second class ranking, and one eagle scout, Sid Knutson. The initial gathering of the Pioneers was recently held under the direction of Mike Foley, scoutmaster of Troop 26. Although organization routine and extensive plans for the immediate future of the patrol constituted an important part of the gathering, the highlight of the meeting was held by Jim Rogers who presented an interesting demonstration on photography.

The Flying Eagle Patrol of Troop 4, Appleton, was recently awarded a medal in recognition of the fact that it received the highest number of points in a patrol contest sponsored by the troop. Members of the winning patrol, which accumulated a total of 304 points, are Ellsworth Potter, Eugene Pegel, James Steffen, and Howard Farrand. A number of scouts from Troop 4 recently participated in a trek to Kaukauna, bunking over-night in a cabin in Kaukauna. Members who made the hike were Ellsworth Potter, Melvin Potter, James Steffen, Howard Farrand, Eugene Pegel, Evan Pegel, John Brash, Chester Babcock, Jim Legn, Ray Reiner, scoutmaster, and Ray Potter, assistant scoutmaster.

A short recreational period in the Methodist Episcopal church gymnasium, followed by a business session constituted the main event of the last meeting of Troop 2, Appleton.

Will Present Play
Troop 17, Seymour, will aid in spreading the ideals of scouting by presenting a play, complete with music and characters, entitled "Mac Decided" during Boy Scout week. The play is intended to emphasize the virtues which enable one to become a good scout with an ever-watchful eye for the pitfalls that may befall him. A number of scouts are keeping their good deed slate clean by aiding in the shoveling of the Seymour skating rink.

Motion pictures taken by Dr. Wagner of Brillion provided the amusement for the scouts of Troop 46 at their last meeting. The troop plans to celebrate Boy Scout week by presenting a first aid demonstration and a talk on the history of scouting at the Brillion High school. A second class badge was awarded by Jack Willis at the gathering.

The Methodist church of Clintonville recently presented a supper with the scouts of Troop 21 as their honorary guests. To signify their appreciation a number of scouts performed a series of stunts, following the banquet, Percy Hughes resigned as toastmaster of Troop 21. In a farewell address, however, he discussed ways in which the troop could be improved. Until another troop leader accepts the position, Mr. Norman Hansen will serve in the capacity of acting scoutmaster with Moose Smith, Roy Eberhart, Reuben Nelson, and George Siedel as his subordinates.

Plan Ski Hike

The activities calendar for Troop 31, Kaukauna, is fairly crowded with coming events. Scouting events which the troop has scheduled for the near future include a ski hike, a jaunt to the troop's cabin, a merit badge show, and a court of honor. In view of the latter event, all scouts were urged to pass at least one test a week in order that they may climb a few more steps in the ladder of scouting. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to the discussion of map-making. Following the scout meeting, a gathering of the various patrol leaders was held.

The feature event of the last meeting of Troop 3, Menasha, was a fireman's lift, drag, and carry race, in which the patrol directed by Hugh Strange proved to be the most superior. Other events of the gathering included a drill session, recreational period, and the formation of plans for a ski hike. Twenty-five members of the troop with their truck and hand-made trailer, recently enjoyed a three hour ski meet in the vicinity of their cabin on the east shores of Lake Winnebago.

Attractions of the meet included a demonstration of the skiing ability of Donald Rusch, scoutmaster, tobogganing by Robert Gross, and the skillful maneuvering of "Olivier", a contraption, equipped with a box and a pair of skis designed by Karl Rusch.

At present Francis Nowak is in first place in the contest for points being sponsored by Troop 43, Neenah. The leader, who has collected a total of 158 points is followed by Ambrose Plucker and R. A. Plucker, with scores of 128 and 101, respectively. The leader, to date, in the patrol division is the Cobra patrol with 143 points followed by the Panther patrol with a score of 71. Tests were passed by Francis Nowak, R. A. Plucker, Douglas Schultz, Emory Parker, and Russell Catlin. Entertainment was effectively provided by Richard Billings who narrated a ghost story.

The scouts of Troop 24, Clintonville, were recently afforded an opportunity to pass a number of their tests, when the troop made a test hike. Scouts who passed tests on the hike, which was directed by E. Peterson, were Edward Laux, Edward Anderson, Peter Bushon, and Bill Hurley. Much of the boys' time has recently been devoted to the arrangement of plans for the troop's annual banquet which will be held soon.

1,000 Tobacco Farmers Bank on His Judgment

IN THE warehouses Mr. Pinnix has managed in Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, 46,000,000 pounds of tobacco have been sold. Farmers travel many miles to bring their crops to Mr. Pinnix's warehouse for sale. Reason is that they respect his tobacco experience and business integrity. So surely Mr. Pinnix's views are worth your respect, too.

"At every market I've ever attended," says Mr. Pinnix, "Lucky Strike has bought the ripest, mellowest tobacco offered. That's why I've smoked Luckies ever since I first became a warehouseman 20 years ago."

Mr. Pinnix's statement is borne out by sworn records which show that, among independent tobacco experts—auctioneers, buyers, and warehousemen—Luckies have over twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Children's Work Leader to Talk at 3-Day Conference

Congregational Sessions on Christian Education
To Open Friday

Miss Mildred Widber, Chicago, national secretary of children's work in congregational churches, will be guest speaker and leader at a conference on Christian education to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at First Congregational church. The conference will open with a supper at 6:15 Friday night to which all teachers and officers of the church school are invited. Parents and others interested in what the modern church school teaches may attend also, as well as teachers and officers of neighboring congregational churches.

Miss Widber will speak Friday evening after the supper on the subject, "Significant and Successful Examples in Contemporary Christian Education."

On Saturday she will have conferences with department superintendents and teachers, and on Sunday Miss Widber will visit the various departments of the church school and offer suggestions to those asking for them. She will have with her an exhibit of hand-work and materials showing what is being used and accomplished in other schools of the congregational denomination.

New Members Admitted
At a vespers communion service Sunday afternoon, new members were received into the church. At the morning service the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor, preached on "The Sixth Sense and the Fourth Dimension."

The first of 10 friendship suppers to be held every Thursday until Easter will take place at 6:30 Thursday night at First Methodist Episcopal church. The suppers will be pot-luck and will take place in the main dining room, the various districts being seated together. A devotional service will follow the supper each week after which Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor, will speak on the Bible. This week, however, his subject will be the United Methodist conference which he attended at Chicago last week. There will be two hostesses for each district.

The theme of Dr. Culver's sermon Sunday morning was "With the Wild Beasts."

Club to Reorganize
Reorganization of the Men's club of First Baptist church will take place at a 6:30 dinner and meeting of all men of the church Wednesday night at the church. Circle Orah will serve the dinner. Last Sunday morning the Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, preached on the subject, "As We Forgive."

Christian Endeavor societies of the Evangelical churches of Greenville, Center, Neenah, Seymour, Forest Junction and Appleton will hold a roller skating party from 7:30 to 10:30 Tuesday evening at the Appleton armory. Members of Boreau Sunday school class of the local church has been invited to attend a meeting of the Determined Workers class of the Neenah Evangelical church at 7:30 Wednesday night at Neenah. A bus has been chartered to take the Appleton women to Neenah, leaving the church at 7 o'clock.

Last Sunday Women's Missionary society and Young People's Missionary circle observed their annual

Day of Prayer by sitting together at the morning service. The sermon by the Rev. G. H. Blum, pastor, was entitled "World Evangelization."

Brotherhood to Meet
Brotherhood of Trinity English Lutheran church will meet for topic study and business at 7:45 Friday night at the church. The topic, "The Christian Man's Attitude Toward Women's Work in the Church" will be given by the Rev. D. E. Bosserman. Plans will be made for a father and son banquet Feb. 22. Last Sunday morning the Rev. D. E. Bosserman, pastor, spoke on "The Calm Life."

The church council of St. Matthew Lutheran church met Monday night. The Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor, preached Sunday morning on the theme, "Sins Against the Sixth Commandment and Their Remedy." At Mt. Olive Lutheran church the sermon by the Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor, was entitled "The Lord's Transfiguration on the Mount."

Sunday school teachers of St. John Evangelical and Reformed church will meet at 7 o'clock Friday night at the home of Mrs. A. Guenther, 126 N. Story street. "The Smitten Rock" was the sermon subject of the Rev. Mr. Guenther last Sunday morning. At the Gospel temple the Rev. G. D. Goudie, pastor, preached Sunday morning on "What Is Prayer?" and Sunday evening on "Jesus Crucified."

"Turn Unto The Lord" was the subject of a sermon given by the Rev. F. C. Reuter at First English Lutheran church last Sunday. "Character Building" was the theme of the Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church spoke Sunday on "Character Building." At Memorial Presbyterian church the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor, preached on "Perspectives."

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following passage was read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Throughout the infinite cycles of eternal existence, spirit and matter neither concur in man nor in the universe. Strangely enough, we ask for material theories in support of spiritual and eternal truths, when the two are so antagonistic that the material thought must become spiritualized before the spiritual fact is attained. So-called material existence affords no evidence of spiritual existence and immortality. Mistaking his origin and nature, man believes himself to be combined matter and spirit. The flesh and spirit can no more unite in action, than good can coincide with evil. No more sympathy exists between the flesh and spirit than between Belial and Christ."

1937 State Marriages Top Previous Marks

Madison —(AP)—The state bureau of vital statistics reported today that the little fellow with the bow and arrow arranged more marriages in Wisconsin last year than at any other time in the state's history.

Francis E. Kester, senior statistician, said the 1937 marriage total now stands at 23,182 with at least 200 more certificates still to be reported. The previous top was 22,293 in 1920.

"Apparently any tendency of couples to marry in adjoining states to escape Wisconsin's increasingly strict marriage laws is being offset by cooperative action of Illinois and Indiana is discouraging Grotna Green marriages," Kester said.

Appleton Electric Rate 6th Lowest In Larger Cities

Federal Power Commission
Releases Figures on Survey

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—The Appleton electricity consumer pays a rate for all classes of service that is the sixth lowest paid by the consumer in the 13 cities of 25,000 or more in Wisconsin, according to a rate study made public today by the Federal Power Commission.

If he has only lights and small appliances, using 25 kilowatt hours, he pays $1.60 a month, as against $1.16 in Madison, the lowest, and against $2.08 in Sheboygan and Fond du Lac, the highest in this class of cities.

If he has also electric refrigeration, using 100 kilowatt hours, he pays $4.10, as against the lowest rate of $2.73 in Madison and the highest rate of $4.95 in Green Bay and Oshkosh paid for such service in cities of this class.

If he has electric cooking, in addition, using 250 kilowatt hours, he pays $6.98, as against $5.23 in Madison—lowest in this class, and $8.28 in Superior—highest.

Among communities of 5,000 to 10,000 population Neenah electricity consumers pay $1.60 for 25 kilowatt hours, $4.10 for 100 kilowatt hours, and $6.98 for 250 kilowatt hours.

Both Appleton and Neenah are served by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Low at Menasha
The smaller consumer in Menasha, however, had the lowest rate, except in one class, in the state. He pays 94 cents for 25 kilowatt hours, $2.25 for 100 kilowatt hours, and $5.25 for 250 kilowatt hours. Menasha is served by a municipal plant, the Menasha Electric and Water Utilities.

In communities of the same population class as Menasha—5,000 to 10,000—highest rates for 25 KWH are in Baraboo, Beaver Dam, Monroe, and Portage, where the charge is $2.33; for 100 KWH, in De Pere and Oconto, where the charge is $4.95; and for 250 KWH, in Baraboo, Beaver Dam, Monroe, and Portage, where the charge is $8.10.

In communities of 10,000 to 25,000 population, Manitowoc consumers get the best break. They pay only 88 cents for 25 KWH, $2.75 for 100 KWH, and $5.50 for 250 KWH. Manitowoc is also served by a municipal plant.

Highest rates in communities of this size are in Ashland, where the charge is $1.93 for 25 KWH, in Marinette, where the charge is $4.95 for 100 KWH, and in Ashland, Beloit, Janesville, Marinette, Stevens Point, and Wausau, where the charge is $7.75 for 250 KWH.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

BY ALLAN KERR

Allan Kerr

If someone asked us to define "dilemma," we doubt if a more suitable illustration of the word could be found than that given in a letter from an Appleton reader. She writes, "All I would like to know if a collar causes goiter and, if so, what should I use, as I have been told a harness spreads the dog's forelegs." She adds, "Please continue the good work," words very hard on a writer's vest buttons, but delightful to the ear.

We have never been greatly disturbed by the goiter scare, so far as those caused by collars are concerned. Never has a definite case come to our attention. The affliction has been noted in dogs on rare occasions, and it has been admitted that whole litters have been born with this inner or outer abnormal neck growth. The use of a collar may aggravate the condition, but we doubt that it will ever actually cause it.

No Ill Effect
Dogs that we have owned have been chained to their tie-out posts over a period of an entire life-time without ill effect. One powerful big spaniel was a good example. He had a little game of solitaire that he used to enjoy during his hours of confinement.

He would fetch his rubber-ball, or a stick, stone or tin-can tossed by a neighborhood youngster, to a remote corner of his yard. Then with a vigorous heave of his front paws he would send the object flying out behind him. It would be immediately retrieved on the run. The performance would be repeated hour after hour.

Sometimes he would kick the ball out of bounds, and then would start a desperate struggle against his collar and chain in an effort to regain the object of his affections. He broke away on numerous occasions, until we finally had a special harness-strap collar made and tied him with a heavier chain.

Goiter? Not a sign, but he did develop a tough, well muscled neck, which was not displeasing for it just made him a more capable retriever on our trips afield or to the marsh-lands. He was a tireless worker and lived to a grand old age.

As a good looking dog needs no adornment to add to his beauty, the collar would seem the better method of control when leading him. During training, a choke-collar may serve even better, as it will tighten up on the neck and cause the dog to learn what is desired of him much more quickly. The use of a harness often develops into little more than an old fashioned tug-of-war.

The round collar is preferred for the long-haired breeds and the flat ones for the smooth or short-haired. A collar without any felt lining will be found more sanitary and easier to clean. If the dog is a puppy, be sure to check it at regular intervals so that it may not become too tight. A few weeks make considerable difference in the size of the neck of a growing pup.

Kennel Club Comments
Here's a little "Winchell" on the coming session of the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club, Feb. 16. Although no definite information has been given out, we would not be surprised to see Captain Will Judy appear as speaker of the evening. Judy is well known as editor and publisher of Dog World and author of many books on canine subjects. His home is in Chicago.

Members of Kennel Club to See Movie On Dogs Wednesday

A motion picture on recent field trials held at East Islip, N. Y., will be shown at a meeting of the Appleton chapter of the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A., Dr. L. H. Dillon, announced today.

The Northeastern club will gather in Appleton Feb. 15. More information on the Appleton meeting of the group appears in Allan Kerr's column published in today's issue of the Post-Crescent.

The picture to be shown Wednesday offers practical suggestions to owners of the Cocker, Springer, Chesapeake and Labrador breeds. The film shows the way field trials are conducted, the way dogs are handled and what is expected of the dogs.

Safety Projects to be Studied at State Meet

A state-wide conference of officers of state organizations has been called at Madison on March 4, according to word received by John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk and secretary of the Wisconsin County Clerks association, from the state highway commission which has called the meeting. Safety projects will be discussed at the conference.

William Puls, high hands; Frank Satorius, high score; Jerome Bruchner, solo against most number of matadores; Dr. M. C. Monroe, second high hands; William Le Capitaine, second high score; Nick Retler, highest single hand; William Marks tournee against the most matadores.

John Zocholl has moved a small home on lots he purchased near the village park. He moved his family into the home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Row and son-Jimmy of Seymour, returned home Sunday following a three days visit at the R. D. Bishop home.

The Rev. John B. Hanna will talk on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln" at a general assembly program at Roosevelt Junior High school Friday morning. The program is being arranged in observance of Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12.

Common Sense About Constipation

If you knew that your constipation was caused by something left out of your food, wouldn't it be just common sense to put that something back?

Your trouble may be caused by nothing more than this. For the most common kind of constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in the bowels—you need some food that passes on through the stomach without being digested. Kellogg's All-Bran supplies this. It gives the bowels the bulky mass they need to work properly. And All-Bran also gives them the intestinal-ionic, vitamin B<sub>1</sub>, which helps restore their tone. Eat All-Bran as a cereal or baked in muffins. But however you eat it, be sure you get some every day. And drink plenty of water. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Surpluses Can't Handle Increase In Unemployment

Statements to Contrary Are Smokescreen, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—If all the manufacturing corporations in the United States used up all their cash and government bonds to meet payrolls, the money would hardly last four months. Also, if the same manufacturing corporations turned all their savings in the form of property and securities into cash, the whole existing surplus would meet their payrolls for just about one year.

These statements of fact are derived from the latest available information from the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue as to the amount of surpluses now held by manufacturing corporations, and from the bureau of labor statistics in the United States Department of Labor, which collects the data about payrolls in industry.

The relevance of this information today is that not long ago President Roosevelt told his press conference that business should dip into its surpluses instead of laying off men or reducing wages. Ever since he made that comment, labor leaders throughout the country have been repeating it as they face their thousands of discontented members who had come to believe that, when they accepted unionization, they were getting security in their jobs.

But the spreading of the notion that surpluses are big enough to take care of the growing unemployment and to prevent wage cuts is just another one of those smokescreens which tend to keep the American people from knowing that we are in the midst of an economic recession which can be cured only when statements made for political effect and other window-dressing events are eliminated from the serious problem of making the system of private capital function so that jobs can be created.

The workers are being given alibis that are largely political. They were misled in the first place by the assertion that administrations create jobs or bring prosperity. The president is right in urging that there be no wage cuts wherever possible to avoid them and that the recession can be aggravated when businesses which can afford to keep their men employed undertake unnecessary economies out of sheer apprehension about the future.

But there are companies whose orders have fallen off and which cannot long continue to meet payrolls out of surpluses without damaging their whole credit structure. Surpluses are not all cash and much of what is listed in the bookkeeping of American business cannot be quickly converted into cash without causing a general liquidation, which, in itself, would cause the book values to shrink.

Surpluses Mixed
Some idea of the way American business has taken it on the chin in the depression which began back in the Hoover administration is to be gotten by noting that, in 1929, the official figures reveal the total surpluses of all manufacturing corporations in the United States to have been $21,000,000,000. By 1933, due to the ravages of the first years of the depression, these surpluses had been melted away by red ink in operations so that, for all manufacturing corporations, the surplus was down to $13,300,000,000. By 1935, the surpluses had gone down still further to $14,000,000,000. All this happened in six years, and to break down by 33 1-3 per cent a big surplus shows how deep the deflation went, because the cut was not, of course, uniform, some companies using up all their surpluses and more besides out of borrowed money.

Thus, for the 6-year period from 1930 to 1936, the official figures from the department of commerce on national income show that $24,367,000,000 more than their income was paid out by all business concerns, and the treasury figures show that, for the same period, the actual deficit was in excess of $35,000,000,000. Under these conditions, with surpluses already shrunk as a consequence of the first years of depression under the Hoover administration, it raises a serious question how much digging into surplus corporations can do now to meet the ravages of depression under the Roosevelt administration.

Surplus Is Important
The total payroll in manufacturing industries is just about $13,500,000,000, and since the surpluses, according to the latest available figures of the treasury, amounted to about $14,000,000,000, it will be seen at a glance that, if every item were converted into cash and if values did not shrink when all these securities were dumped on the market, there would be enough to meet a payroll for one year. Meanwhile, many individual companies would go into bankruptcy because their surpluses are not as big as others. The rich corporations would remain on the scene to gobble up the orders and the business volume of their weaker competitors.

But even if corporations were inclined to take a chance on a month or two of maintained payrolls, using surplus to pay for it, they fear doing it because a surplus has twice the importance that it used to have. For, under the Roosevelt administration's law compelling surpluses to be paid out in the form of dividends, the companies which need cash for expansion and don't want to put themselves in the hands of bankers naturally feel that the surplus they now possess is probably the last substantial amount they will be permitted to amass. Some day, even these complicated questions of taxation will be more widely understood, especially when an administration starts to use the taxing power not for constructive revenue purposes, but for punitive reform. Any law that punishes corporations for saving money and makes thrift a vice is bound to be rejected by the people at every opportunity they may have to vote on it, and they will have such a chance this autumn when members of congress who voted for the undistributed surplus law and failed to remove the whole cancer from the economic system will be up for reelection.

YOUR Income Tax

EXEMPTION ALLOWED STATE EMPLOYEES

The compensation of officers and employees of a State or any political subdivision thereof, which is paid from public funds of the State or political subdivision, as distinguished from amounts collected from individuals or private corporations, if the services of such officers or employees are rendered in connection with activities which constitute the discharge of an essential government function, as distinguished from a proprietary function, is exempt from Federal income tax. The compensation of such officers and employees is subject to Federal income tax if their services were rendered in connection with the exercise of a proprietary function. For example, the compensation of the Governor of a State, the mayor of a city, councilmen, board of aldermen, public-school teachers, firemen, and policemen is not subject to Federal income tax. The compensation of such officers and employees whose services are connected with the liquidation by the State of insurance companies or banks, which is paid from funds of the companies being liquidated, is not exempt from Federal income tax. Compensation received by employees of a municipally owned street railway or electric light plant is subject to Federal income tax, as such activities are proprietary rather than governmental in character.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

BY ROBBIN COGNS

Hollywood — The film colony's weekend horizon is continually expanding. More than ever before, Hollywood over Saturdays and Sundays is a "deserted village."

Every weekend automatically divides the stellar residents into two classes: those who are working, those who are not. For most of the latter, the exodus begins earlier than Saturday noon. For many of the former, Saturday noon means a quick getaway. Shortly after Saturday noon, the celebrity population of Hollywood is at its lowest—unless, during the Santa Anita racing season, you include Arcadia within the figurative boundaries of the colony.

beach games and stay up roasting weiners or bridge parties.

Hideouts Numerous
But Malibu now is just one of the pebbles on the recreation beach. Palm Springs, the desert resort, horned in first. Three hours from Hollywood—four if you take your time—Palm Springs boasts healthful beauty, ultra-ultra accommodations, and splendid isolation except for tourists and autograph hunters. From autumn until spring, get away from it all and be seen.

About a year ago, however, the famous of filmland began looking at maps and making startling discoveries, to wit, that there were Other Places! Unexplored, tucked away, intriguing, small places!

So when you want to locate your favorite star on a Sunday morning you're up against it. Victorville (desert) and La Quinta (near Palm Springs) and Furnace Creek (in Death Valley) and Arrowhead (in the mountains) are just starters.

Bob Montgomery's present favorite is Sun Valley, the Idaho winter sports resort. For a quick trip from here flying is essential.

Dolores del Rio, Jeanette MacDonald, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone make quick jaunts to the new B-Bar-H ranch, which other movie stars have since "discovered." The Marx brothers are Palm Springs addicts, but Clark Gable divides his free time between that resort, La Quinta, and half a dozen other spots.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture gives. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, you'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It has a remarkable three-fold action: it loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Open Discussion, Pro and Con, Is Given Ward Plan

Officials, Citizens Join in Forum Meeting at High School

A frank and practical discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of the proposal to divide Appleton into 18 wards, with a supervisor and alderman from each, for strong representation on the county board was held at the second meeting of the Appleton Forum last night in the high school auditorium at which more than 100 were present.

The question was laid before the meeting not for debate nor formation of conclusions, but for study and explanation, just as all topics are treated in such forums. City officials, civic leaders, and interested persons spoke.

The subject is "one of long standing," John Neller, president of the chamber of commerce, told the assembly. "It is not backed by the chamber of commerce or the city officials or by any particular group in the city. It is merely a discussion of a civic matter by the citizens of the community."

Neller displayed a graph, showing that Appleton, with 11 per cent of the county's population, has only 14.6 per cent of county board membership. "Based on population, which is an equitable way of figuring, it will be self-evident to county board members that we are fairly deserving of more representation," Neller declared.

Representation inadequate, Charles Thompson, alderman from the Second ward, admitted that Appleton "is not represented properly" on the county board. "There is no argument there," he said, "but whether it will do the city any good to add 12 more is another matter."

Thompson contended that by adopting the plan, Appleton will have more representation than its neighbors, Little Chute, Grand Chute, and Kimberly, and that inequality on the board will still exist. "If we have 18 supervisors, it will mean one for each 1,400 persons. Right now Little Chute has one for each 2,800, Grand Chute one for each 2,700, and Kimberly, one for each 2,250," he said.

Neller pointed out during his talk that Appleton's strength on the board is smaller than that of other cities in the state. He cited figures showing that while other cities which are the metropolitan centers of their counties have, at the least, one supervisor for each 2,500 persons, Appleton's proportion is one to each 422.

Since 1875, Neller said, 18 communities in the county have shown recessions in population. Yet the county's representation has almost doubled and Appleton's remained the same, six supervisors.

Would Cost More
Thompson stated that the 18-ward plan, which means six more aldermen on the city council, would boost administrative costs by $5,000. Neller didn't disagree with him, but said that a "discriminating study of expenditures on the county board, we should save Appleton that much."

The county board 1938 budget entails expenditure of $1,200,000. Of those taxes, Appleton will pay nearly 50 per cent, Neller said. "It seems as if Appleton should have more of a voice in it."

Should Appleton add 12 more supervisors, making her total 18, the county board personnel would number 53. Thompson said that 18 out of 53 is not a majority and that it would be powerful only if all 18 voted together and the others didn't unite with the common vote against the city. "This is a very fanciful situation," he said. "I don't know that the situation ever arose where all Appleton supervisors voted together."

It was pointed out during the meeting that Appleton had gone without adequate and mostly without any representation on important county committees. "We haven't had a man on the highway committee more than half the time in the last 20 years," one man said. "The equalization committee is another on which we have not been properly represented."

City's Value Gains
Neller stated that in 1919, Appleton had 28.55 per cent of the total county assessments and that in 1938, the quotient had moved up to 45.88. The county board committees are elected, Thompson said, and although Appleton has gone year after year without proper consideration on them, "the question is whether we'd have it after adopting this plan."

The strongest argument against the 18-ward plan is from a city, not a county angle, the Second ward alderman declared. He held that an 18-man council would be slower in doing business and that the committee scheme would be disrupted.

"We have studied this matter thoroughly and carefully and talked over all its objectionable features," Neller said in presenting background on the earlier movement. Promulgators of the plan held more than 15 meetings and investigated all its aspects.

Won't Imperil Good Will
Whether the good will of the city increases its supervisors to 18 was discussed. Backers of the plan, quoted officials of Green Bay,

City Council Will Act on Application For Carnival Permit

Alderman Mike Steinhauer, acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Goodland, today called a special meeting of the common council for 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in city hall.

Action on the application of the Veterans of Foreign Wars for a permit to sponsor a carnival here June 13 to 18, will be taken.

The application was discussed at the last meeting of the council but on Alderman Keller's motion, action was deferred to allow interested citizens to meet with aldermen.

Act Would Purge War of Profits, Helble Declares

Legion's Universal Service
Insures Preparedness,
Speaker Says

Prevention of war-time profiteering by taxing 95 per cent of all incomes above the previous 3-year average and other provisions of the Universal Service measure advocated by the American Legion to take profit from war were described in a talk by H. H. Helble, state department chairman of Americanism, at a meeting of the Oney Johnston Post last night in the clubhouse.

"Our experience in the World war convinces us that we have nothing to gain by war. Both victor and vanquished lose. However, we are afraid that the international situation may embroil us again against our wishes. We already are being pulled this way and that by propaganda."

Would Limit Prices
Empowering of the president to declare that existing prices of food, clothing, rents, etc., cannot be raised above a certain level, drafting of militia between 21 and 31 years of age for wartime service, giving president right to take over industries needed for licensing business so that state fattening on war profits could be controlled, preventing industries from bidding away skilled managers with exorbitant salaries, giving president power to appoint all boards and commissions necessary.

"This plan does not mean to draft labor as labor, it does not mean censorship of the press, and it does not mean giving the president more power than he already has under the Constitution," Helble said. "It does not mean to outlaw profit, but simply to outlaw excessive or illegitimate profit."

The measure will not only save billions of dollars, Helble said, but thousands of lives through preparedness.

Committee Has Dinner
The executive committee of the post held a 6:30 dinner at the clubhouse preceding last night's meeting. Thirty men attended. The committee in charge included Mrs. George Hogreiver, Mrs. Edward Kline, and Mrs. Stanley Stahl.

It was announced at the meeting that a dance would be held at the clubhouse Feb. 14. The committee members are Elmer Schabo, George Culligan, Max Kolek, Paul Wilkie, and Herbert Farrand.

The committee for the state bowling tournament next month at Racine announced at the meeting following: Walter Schultz, Elmer Schabo, and John Bauer.

Plans for the carnival which will be sponsored by the post at Armory G Feb. 23, 24, 25, and 26, were described by George Limbert.

Fred Heinritz, chairman of the house committee, reported that the clubhouse will be open Friday and Saturday evenings.

Don Purdy, entertained with sleight-of-hand tricks and a quartet from the Henry J. Lenz post of Menasha sang.

Two Companies Awarded Contracts for Gasoline

The Buth Oil company and Deep Rock Oil company were each awarded a contract for furnishing the county highway department with a carload of gasoline by the county highway committee yesterday at the courthouse.

The company bid was 8 cents per gallon without the tax while the Deep Rock company bid was 7.8 cents per gallon without the tax. Six bids were considered. Twelve bids for the year's supply of oil and grease were opened but no action taken. Bills including $2,958.13 for labor, $1,317.18 for materials and $1,629.50 for rights-of-way were allowed.

where it has been adopted, as assuming that that no enemy had arisen between city and county because of it.

John R. Riedl, managing editor of the Post-Crescent, said he believed that there would be "less harm if six men were added to the council than good if 12 more supervisors were on the board."

He said that there will be a "tendency to place more Appleton men on committees" and that although the bloc of 18 will not be a majority, it will be respected.

The Rev. John E. Hanna presided at most of the meetings. Later, he turned chairmanship over to Dr. J. B. MacLaren who was elected temporary president of the Appleton Forum.

Other temporary officers elected last night are H. H. Helble, vice president; Homer Gebhardt, secretary; and Miss Lynda Hollenbeck, treasurer.

COUNTY PLOW MIRED IN DITCH FOR TWELVE HOURS

It took county highway department workmen about 12 hours to haul the 20-ton caterpillar tractor snowplow, shown above, from a ditch on Highway 51 near Seymour yesterday. The plow was being used for ditching when it became mired in a soft spot. Efforts to pull the heavy machine from the ditch with other county trucks proved useless until some cedar posts were secured and placed under the tractor so it could aid by using its own power. The plow became stuck about 11 o'clock yesterday morning and it was pulled from the ditch about 11 o'clock last night. (Post-Crescent Photo)

3-Cornered Fight Develops for Post Of City Engineer

Lloyd Schindler, Incumbent, to Be Candidate
For Reelection

A 3-cornered race for the city engineer's office in the primary election Mar. 15 developed today when Lloyd M. Schindler, incumbent, announced he would be a candidate for reelection.

Opposing Schindler in the primary will be A. J. Lytle, Jr., 627 S. Miller street, and Alfred Wickes, 402 S. State street, for whom papers are being circulated. The incumbent has served as engineer for the last 12 years.

Nomination papers also were taken out for George Brautigam, 624 S. Telulah street, for the office of alderman from the Fourth ward. Brautigam is finishing a term as Fourth ward alderman.

R. H. Kubitz, incumbent in the Sixth ward, said today that he would seek reelection for that office. Kubitz is completing his first term as an alderman.

All present office holders have taken out papers for reelection except Carl J. Becker, city clerk; George Peotter, city assessor, and C. D. Thompson, Second ward alderman.

Two Youths Fined on Charges of Larceny

William Lutz, 21, Racine, and Norbert Koleske, 23, Menasha, pleaded guilty of larceny on two counts in municipal court yesterday and Judge Thomas H. Ryan fined each $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the county detention camp.

The youths admitted taking bakery goods valued at $8 from a Service Bakery company, Appleton, truck in the town of Osborn, and some tools valued at $15 from Arnold Hoerning in the town of Black Creek on Jan. 19.

Change Meeting Date Of Special Committee

The special county board committee named to study proposals for a southern connecting link between the city and Superhighway 41 will meet Friday afternoon instead of Wednesday, it was announced today.

The committee is expected to make a recommendation to the board regarding a connecting link and the recommendation will be considered by county supervisors at their March meeting.

County Gets Aid for Payment of Pensions

Two checks, one for $171.85 and the other for $71.78, were received from the state treasurer's department yesterday by Miss Marie Ziegengarten, Outagamie county treasurer.

The larger amount is the federal-state aid for old age pension administration costs for the last quarter of 1937. The smaller amount is the federal-state aid to the county for the period for blind pension administration costs.

Commission Warns Employees Against Utility Investments

Madison—(P)—The public service commission warned its 270 employees today that investment in any utility or corporation regulated by the commission will be grounds for dismissal.

The order, which comes at the height of the state investigation of the B. E. Buckman and Company case and other matters growing out of it, is a restatement and broadening of policy heretofore in effect, the commission said.

It requires each commission employee to be able to produce upon demand a complete record of any purchases, acquisitions, transactions or sales involving securities and holds that when a commission employee becomes involuntarily interested, as by gift or estate, he must dispose of the interest promptly.

Former President Of Manawa Is Dead

Walter Bigford, 81, Succumbs After Illness
Of Three Years

Walter William Bigford, 81, Manawa, died at his home at Manawa at 10 o'clock last night after a 3-year illness.

Mr. Bigford was former president of the village of Manawa and attended Lawrence college at Appleton. He was born at Taycheedah where he lived until 20 years of age. He lived on a farm near Stockbridge and married Miss Effie Collins of Stockbridge in 1884 and later moved to Hortonville where he was employed at the railway depot. The couple moved to Manawa in 1896.

Funeral services will be held at Manawa Thursday.

Realty Transfers

The following real estate transfers were filed today at the office of A. L. Collar, Outagamie county register of deeds:

Desa M. Ryan to Harry Stephens, a lot in the Third ward, Appleton, Wesley B. Williams to Dewey Zwicker, part of a lot in the Fifth ward, Appleton.

Irene E. Roeder to John E. Wiseman, part of a lot in the Second ward, Appleton.

Hattie E. Graham to Marvin Kuehne, a parcel of land in the city of Seymour.

Barney McDaniel to Sylvester McDaniel, part of a lot in the Fourth ward, Kaukauna.

Christopher Pendergast to Annie Romanosko, a lot in the Second ward, Appleton.

Annie Romanosko to Christopher Pendergast, a parcel of land in the town of Freedom.

Luella, and Elizabeth Bartman; two sons, Sylvester and Leon, all of Appleton; one brother, Phillip Schierl, Menasha; one sister, Mrs. Rose Schreiber, Menasha.

The body will be at the home this evening. Prayer services will be conducted there at 8 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night.

Born in Morrison, Wis., Mr. Fox lived on a farm on route 1, Kaukauna, up to two years ago when he moved to Freedom. He was supervisor of the town of Freedom for seven years. He was a member of St. Theresa society, Holy Name, society, and St. Nicholas church, Freedom.

Survivors are the widow; seven daughters, Mrs. Amrose Rutter, Neenah, Mrs. William Daul, Kaukauna, Mrs. Robert Murphy, Oneida, Mrs. George Deering, Kaukauna, Mrs. Godfred Lamers, Mrs. Peter Lamers, Wrightstown, and Miss Elizabeth Fox, Milwaukee; two sons, Nicholas, Jr., and Joseph Kaukauna; two brothers, Peter Kaukauna, John, Kimberly; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Lanser, Appleton, Mrs. Rose Hooyman, De Pere; 27 grandchildren.

MRS. CATHERINE BARTMAN
Mrs. Catherine Bartman, 71, 313 W. Atlantic street, died at her home at 4:40 this morning after a 3-week illness.

Born April 25, 1866, in Menasha, she lived in Appleton the last 30 years. She was a member of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters.

Assets Transfer By Buckman Firm Topic at Hearing

Did Not Reflect True Condition of Accounts,
Pehru Says

Madison—(P)—Attorney A. W. Pehru of Wausau, creditors' counsel in the B. E. Buckman and Company bankruptcy hearing charged today that the company's voluntary assignment of its assets to creditors does not reflect the true condition of its accounts when it suspended business last November.

During questioning of E. C. Holt, secretary-treasurer of the insolvent Madison securities firm, Pehru directed attention to "unbalanced" listing of preferred claims and liabilities. Holt took the stand after Perry Stetteland, former Buckman company counsel, testified on affairs of the Continental Service company, a Buckman sponsored holding firm, and the organization of the Service Stations, Inc., which controls a string of oil stations in Chicago.

Pehru took up individual items in the asset schedule voluntarily prepared by the Buckman company before it was forced into federal bankruptcy proceedings and said in each case that persons and firms listed as preferred creditors in fact owned the Buckman company large sums of money.

Indebted to Company
The Public Service company account, Pehru said, showed the company was indebted to the Buckman firm for about $152,000 the day before the assignment was made, but the asset schedule showed the Buckman company was indebted to Public Service for $15,139. He told Referee Miles Riley that reports in the Public Service company's bankruptcy hearings now in progress in Little Rock, Ark., also showed a $152,000 liability to the Buckman company.

Holt insisted the schedule reflected the "true condition" of the books at the time the assignment was made. He also agreed to go over the books with Pehru to show him where certain figures came from.

Stetteland was questioned by Bruno V. Bitter of Milwaukee, special state attorney. The witness at one point identified a letter he wrote in December, 1936, to C. H. Jarvis of the United States corporation in Dover, Del., admitting that directors of Continental Service company had declared an unlawful dividend, and asking that Jarvis arrange for payment of a notice that would relieve them of civil liability.

Authorized Dividend
Stetteland's letter explained the directors had authorized payment of a dividend to 20 per cent of Continental stockholders and had made no allotment to the other 80 per cent. He testified that President B. E. Buckman, Vice President Louis George and Holt, all of the Buckman company, were directors at that time in the Continental firm. Stetteland, also a director, did not identify the persons to whom the dividend was to have been paid. The financial condition of Continental did not warrant declaration of a dividend at that time, he said.

Later Stetteland told of the organization of Service Stations, Inc., a holding company for which the Buckman company underwrote a $100,000 bond issue early in 1936. He said most of the bonds were sold in Wisconsin, that the company had proved profitable, and was still in operation.

Stetteland contended that George originally financed purchase of operations on the Chicago properties by advancing $5,000 from funds of the Wells-Kendall company, Madison, of which he was general manager, that stock of the company subsequently was divided between George and Neil Bolles and J. C. Sutherland, both of Chicago. He denied that George's one-third share became part of Buckman company assets.

Appleton Street Cleared of Snow

Loading Machine Will Be Moved to Morrison
Street Wednesday

Street department workmen were removing snow from Appleton street and at noon today had cleared most of Appleton street from Lawrence street to the Chicago and North Western tracks.

The snow loader, which is being used in removal work, was down for repairs about 12 hours this morning but again was put in operation about 11 o'clock. Seven trucks are being used to haul snow to the ravine near the city fairgrounds.

Crews also were attempting to open frozen catch basins to allow surface water to drain into storm sewers. The crews were working at various points in the city in answer to complaints received by the department.

The snow loader will be moved to Morrison street Wednesday. George T. Prim, chief of police, today asked cooperation of motorists who usually park their cars on the street to help keep the roadway clear.

Federation Union Is Named Bargaining Agent

Washington—(P)—The labor relations board certified today an American Federation of Labor local as exclusive collection bargaining agent for employees of the LaCrosse garment industries.

The board said the A. F. of L. union had defeated the Ladies Garment Workers (CIO), 130 to 96, in an election.

THE SPIRIT OF TODAY
Nationalism may best be described as the most fiery and lasting offspring of modern times. Regardless of what form of government a nation may claim, the nationalist spirit is deeply embedded in the hearts of all its subjects.

Kings dictators and presidents are equally successful in engendering this quality into the lives of their peoples.

To be successful in any field demands good health. Headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness may seem like minor disorders but they can quickly undermine the health and spirit. You should, therefore, seek prompt and proper relief from these ailments and you can best do this by consulting Leo J. Murphy, of 221 Insurance Bldg. # Duplicates Are Won on Small Bids

BY ELY CULBERTSON

In rubber bridge it is not only exciting but highly remunerative to bid and make slams. Duplicate bridge offers more prosaic pleasures. Here it is likely to be more profitable to put up a splendid defense against a measly contract of one-odd and defeat it a trick than to score a thousand or more points through the slam route. In an ordinary eight table duplicate game at least four or five teams will bid the slam on a given board. Of course, the contract may be made only through expert play, perhaps involving a squeeze, and in that case the better players have an opportunity to pick up match points. Usually, however, a slam will be either "cold" by ordinary play or unmakeable by any play. Hence, I repeat, most duplicates are won by the teams paying the proper attention to less spectacular contracts. Consider the East-West defense in the following hand:

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
Match point duplicate.

NORTH
 ♠ K 8 4
 ♥ 10 7 2
 ♣ K 10 9 4

WEST
 ♠ J 10 5 2
 ♥ A 9 4 3
 ♦ A J
 ♣ J 8

EAST
 ♠ Q 7 3
 ♥ A 6
 ♦ K 7 4 2
 ♣ Q 5 3 2

SOUTH
 ♠ A 6
 ♥ K Q 5
 ♦ Q 10 8 3
 ♣ A 7 6

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 diamond Double Pass 1 spade
 1 no trump Pass Pass Pass

The bidding requires explanation, more, in fact, than I can give it. West's double was hardly orthodox. A simple heart overcall was all that his hand was worth. The double put East in an uncomfortable position. With his only high honor, the diamond king, underneath the diamond bid, East did not think much of his hand. He chose to bid one spade, even though he had only a three card suit, rather than put the bidding level higher with a two club response. South's no trump over the spade was just plain awful. He had a sound pass.

West shrewdly decided to preserve his heart position and selected the spade jack as his opening lead. (Obviously a heart opening would have given declarer two heart tricks, since dummy's ten would have held the first trick.) Dummy ducked, East signaled with the seven spot, and declarer won. The ace of clubs was cashed and a low club led toward dummy. West's jack was smothered, and the club for was taken by East's queen. West discarding a spade, East returned the heart eight. Declarer split his honors and West, instead of winning, gave the emphatic come-on signal of the nine-spot. Declarer entered dummy with the spade king and led a diamond.

Then came the crucial play of the hand! If East had played automatically "second hand low," declarer, of course, would have put in the eight or nine. West would have had to be a crystal gazer to win with the ace and return the jack. Undoubtedly, on the bidding, West would have won with the jack and returned the ace and jack of hearts, preserving his diamond ace for entry. This sequence, however, would have given declarer seven tricks, two spades, two hearts, and three clubs. East did not put the burden of clairvoyance on West. Realizing that West must hold the diamond ace to justify his takeout double even partly, East hopped up with the diamond king, second hand, cashed the spade queen, and returned his remaining heart. Declarer took no more tricks, and the 50 point penalty earned by the defenders gave them top on the board.

Beauty Aids Available For Babies

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Today's lot has much to be thankful for. Think what a head start he or she has with scientific bathing, weighing, feeding, with synthetic sunshine and other modern developments, all planned for the baby's well being.

Heretofore when we've talked about beauty for the very young, we really referred to hygiene, for health is the basis of all beauty. Now, however, beauty itself starts in infancy. Added to all the other scientific "baby specials" there's a new set for the wee one consisting of a baby cream, a baby talcum and cotton in jars, beautifully boxed and ribboned in the traditional blue for boys, pink for girls.

The cream is rather unusual in that it is rich, yet immediately disappears into the delicate skin leaving no trace of stickiness; just a delightful soothed, lubricated feeling. The talc is fine and fresh smelling without heavy perfume. After all, there is nothing more delightful than a clean fresh smelling baby.

When baby has been creamed and powdered you press a tiny button on the back of the jar and, pronto, it chirps like a bird for the wee one's amusement.

If you happen to be gift hunting for something, whether a hospital or homecoming gift, for the baby who has everything from bottles and bunnings, carriage and crib, scales and such: this wee-to beauty set ought to fill the bill as something original and beautiful, too.

I am sure that neither mother, baby nor physician will raise any objections!

Wild Animals of Ceylon

When a Buddhist told me that he believed it wrong to kill an insect, even a mosquito, I thought of all the harm mosquitoes have done. Certain kinds have spread malaria and yellow fever, and have caused many deaths.

"What if a mosquito were going to bite you, and make you so sick you would die," I said to the Buddhist, "wouldn't you think it right to kill it?"

He replied with a smile, "I would say, 'Al right! Thank you!' to him."

"Have you ever seen a cobra in a jungle?" I asked the same man.

"Yes, one day I got close to a cobra before I saw it."

"What did you do?"

"I ran away as fast as I could!"

From that little event, I judge that my Buddhist friend really does not want to die very soon. The cobra is one of the world's deadly snakes. It is fairly common in some parts of Ceylon, as well as in India. Now and then we may see a native who "charms" cobras, but most persons would not care for his job.

Another deadly snake of Ceylon is the python. It does not have a poisonous bite, but it can crush a large animal or a human being to death. Some Ceylon pythons grow to a length of 20 or 22 feet.

Among the other wild animals on this island are leopards, panthers, bears, deer, wild boars, crocodiles and jackals. The birds include crows, cuckoos, weaver birds, pelicans, hornbills, hoopoes, orioles, kingfishers and flamingos.

The leopards seldom turn into "man-eaters," but one near Punnar, Ceylon, is said to have killed 15 people before it was shot by a farmer. The bears also are dangerous. They are not of great size, but they have long sharp claws, and sometimes attack men who wander into the wilds.

The sambar deer is the largest on the island, and reaches a weight of more than 400 pounds.

Many Ceylon homes have attics or lofts with rat-snakes in them. These snakes kill large numbers of rats and mice. When chasing their victims, or struggling with them, at night they make so much noise that people below cannot sleep.

The snake-killing mongoose is another Ceylon animal. It is not afraid to attack a cobra, and it also pursues the poisonous "tic polonga."

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

FRIEND'S BEAU

Dears Mrs. Post: What am I supposed to do? I seem to be the villain in this story but I really can't help that it all came about this way. My friend's "boy friend," whom she has always liked very much, has started to ask me to go out with him. I've liked this boy for some years, but because my friend always seemed so possessive of him, I never thought of him as being a beau of my own. But he has been treating her coolly lately and is asking me to go out with him. And to complicate the situation, I like him and would like to have dates with him. But may a friend do this to another? I know plenty of women do, but I mean ethically, what is right?

Answer: Ethically, the code of a thoroughbred is always to fight shy of accepting any attention from the man whom she has a friend. The wrong would certainly be greater in degree if the man were her husband or if she were engaged to him. If he were cool to her for a long time and then afterwards became devoted to you, even this should give you an uncomfortable feeling of being, as it were, a trespasser unless you knew for certain that your friend had long ago ceased to claim his attentions. Of course, of all the situations that can come between either two girls or two men this is the most distressing. It has formed the theme of every variety of triangle, drama. Circumstances of course alter fort and happiness to both of you on your last lap of the journey of life.

There has never been any objection to in-laws marrying that would hold water. On the contrary, such marriages are generally very happy because a brother-in-law and sister-in-law know each other's characters and it has formed the theme of every variety of triangle, drama. Circumstances of course alter

So they do not have to go through the disillusioning process that one goes through who marries a stranger. Also, they know each other's tastes and habits and are congenial, or else they were not wanted to marry. And if there are children it eliminates the cruel step-father or mother problem because the children of a dead sister or brother are as dear to them as their own.

Answer: No harm at all. In fact, it is a very sensible thing to do and would probably bring a great deal of com-

Beauty of Lawns Depends on Early Growth of Roots

Must be Quick and Dense During First Few Weeks of Spring

The full season's growth should be in mind when planning a lawn in early spring. There are good reasons for this, because the beauty of lawns in July and August depends not a little upon how vigorous and healthy is the early root growth.

To compete with all the weeds, especially crab grass, growth must be quick and dense during the early weeks of spring. Most weed seed germinates later than grass seed. This enables the lawn maker to have his grass seedlings up and ready to crowd out the pests when they are weak and most vulnerable. The grass seedlings are thus able to treat their enemies in the same ruthless fashion weeds so often follow—by opposing each weed seedling with a hundred opponents.

Dense Growth (Top) Resulting From Proper Feeding Contrasts With Poor Unfed Growth.

To achieve this vigorous condition in the early lawn, abundant food is needed. Before more scientific means were developed, manure was used for this purpose, but although manure is scarce and expensive (not to mention offensive) nowadays, things have been learned about it which raise serious question of its value. First, it contains a large quantity of weed seeds we are trying to destroy. Second, and more important, the valuable food elements which it contains are in such a state they cannot become available to plants until warm weather and warm rains set in, thus making it practically inert in the spring.

To replace it science has given us modern balanced plant food, containing mineral and organic chemicals in correct proportions which are really soluble and can be absorbed by the plants under any climatic conditions. Such plant food gives instant stimulus to lawn seed during early spring when most needed. Apply a few hours before seed is sown and wet into the soil. If spread after seedlings have appeared, wet immediately.

A plant food spreader will save time in applying, although for small areas, the hand method is satisfactory. Four pounds for 100 square feet of area is sufficient. For later applications, 2 pounds for 100 square feet is sufficient.

cases. If this girl is anything of a flirt, if she has had a great many other beaux and still has a great many other beaux, and if you know that this man is not one in whom she is seriously interested, that would of course be one thing. On the other hand, if she is a serious type of girl and to her he is "the one person in the world," then I think that you could hardly fail to hold yourself in contempt by disregarding her feelings. This is, however, no more than a generalization since this type of question can not possibly be answered excepting by one who knows every detail in each particular case.

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I are good friends of brothers who are at the same college. They want us to come spend the weekend at one of their hotels. Will it be proper for us to go alone and stay together alone in the hotel? Also, since we are thinking of going at their invitation, can we expect to pay our hotel bill?

Answer: It will not do at all for you and your sister to go without a chaperon, as guests of these brothers, unless this is at house-party week or at some time when the college is giving a dance and chaperons are provided for all visitors collectively. In this case, you should pay your own hotel bills. That is one thing that no man may pay for a girl ever, although he may invite her out to meals, pay for her taxis and so on.

PARTNERS IN HEALING

By H. SCHLINTZ of Schlitz Bros. Co.

Your physician and your druggist are partners in the science of healing. Both have put in years of arduous study, of self-discipline, of research. Each is indispensable.

It is the doctor's job to diagnose the ailment that affects you, or some member of your family, to be skilled, able, sympathetic, kindly.

It is the druggist's job to take the doctor's prescription and compound it of pure, efficacious drugs into the specific which you will use as a remedial cure.

It is important to select your druggist with the same judgment that you choose your family doctor.

Mistake to Spare Child From Sorrow, Hardship

BY ANGELO PATHI

Many people make the mistake of sparing children the daily experiences of life. If trouble comes to the family the children are not told. Is it anybody else's fault that illness, loss of money, loss of friends and relatives, accidents of one sort or another befall? Could it have been avoided in any way? Somebody may have been at fault, but how about those who were faultless in the matter but who had to bear the burden?

If life could be made easy, if it could be relieved of all sorrow and hardship for a child, or for anyone in the world, there might be some sense in shielding the children from life's woes. But every child will grow up to face trouble in plenty. Shielded from infancy how is he to endure it? It is far better to allow each child to take his share of whatever befalls the family. As long as it is a family matter and not a personal one, the family ought to share it.

I know there are things best kept from some children. Common sense is essential in every relation with children. But suppose there is a boy of eighteen in the family. Father loses money that was needed to carry on in the usual way. Mother decides that son need not know. She will economize; go without; stint in every way, but son will go on as usual. They go on as usual with their work and their play. That is wrong.

Sickness in the family is a common experience. It is a family situation and ought to be faced by the children and shared by them as far as possible. Not that the burden of worry and work should fall upon them heavily, but that they do their share toward helping the family over a hard place. There are many things young people can do in such circumstances and they should be allowed to do them. They should be taught to do them. Nobody likes to see the shadow of sorrow fall across a child's life.

Sickness comes to the family. Mother and auntie, both past their first youth, take hold. They go without sleep; they work steadily to keep the house as usual and attend to the patient at the same time. There are two or three children of high school age, one of college age, in the family. But they are not allowed to know about this illness except that it is present.

Easier to Get Along With Women Who Are Practical

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—My parents have never got along well together and are now threatening to separate, but why should that make the girl to whom I am engaged call off our marriage? Why must she let their unhappiness cause unhappiness for us, for she is as miserable over the broken engagement as I am? I tell her that she is not marrying my family and that because my father and mother don't agree does not affect our getting along harmoniously together. We will live our own lives and our marriage will be what we make it, not what my parents have made of theirs. But she has an obsession that somehow in the future their lives would affect ours adversely and isn't willing to risk it. It is not an easy matter to give up the girl who is your ideal, but I am afraid I've got to do it. My reasoning seems to make no appeal to her. Could you say something that might help her to see the situation straight.

E. E.

DOROTHY DIX

I have heard of engagements being broken off for many strange reasons, but never before for anything so silly as because the young man's parents weren't over-dovey. If your girl hasn't any more common sense than that, believe me, I think you will be mighty lucky to escape taking her on for a life companion. For no woman in the world is harder to live with than the one who is always taking some neurotic point of view that nobody else would have thought of, and making herself and everybody else miserable and uncomfortable over it. Practical women, with their feet on the ground, may not be as glamorous as dream girls, but they are a heap easier to get along with.

If your father and mother were criminals, if they had done some disgraceful thing, or if they had some hereditary disease, your fiancée would have just cause to refuse to marry you, but just because they don't agree is no reason whatever for breaking off the match. If no young people got married except those whose parents spent their time bickering and cooing, there would be such a slump in the marriage market that wedding rings would become curiosities.

As near as I can figure it out, your sweetie's position is: That because you were brought up as a home of strife you will make your home a battle ground, and that because your father didn't hit it off with your mother you won't hit it off with her, and that because their marriage is a failure yours is bound to be one.

Which, of course, is all nonsense. Indeed, the exact opposite is more likely to happen than that you will take after your parents, matrimonially speaking. Just because your home was unhappy and you spent a distraught childhood witnessing the fights of your parents you will make the greater effort to make your own home a place of peace and rest, and just because you can see wherein your father failed to make your mother happy you will make the greater effort to make your wife glad she married you.

The children of disgruntled husbands and wives are not likely to imitate their parent's example. Rather they are an awful warning. One of the tenderest husbands I know is one whose father was a surly crouch who never considered his wife in any way, or showed her a particle of affection. And one of the worst spoiled husbands I know is married to a woman whose father was henpecked to death by her mother. A girl has mighty little sporting blood in her if she isn't willing to take a chance on marrying a man for no other reason than because his parents fight.

Dear Dorothy Dix—What harm would there be in me marrying my husband's brother? Since my husband's death my brother-in-law and I have been thrown much together. He has been very kind to me and we have fallen in love with each other and would like to marry if it is not wrong.

A LONELY WIDOW.

Answer: No harm at all. In fact, it is a very sensible thing to do and would probably bring a great deal of com-

Royalton Grange Plans Dancing Party Saturday

Royalton — The Grange will have a dancing party at the hall Saturday evening. The committee in charge includes Cyril Martin, Leo Roloff and Arthur Fletcher.

The Ladies Aid society met with Mrs. Carroll Ritchie Thursday afternoon. The next meeting will be Feb. 17 at the home of Mrs. Stella Davis with Mrs. Robert Plant of Ostrander as the assisting hostess.

The Hobart school presented a play at the Pine Grove school Thursday evening. Those attending from Hobart were Mr. Paul Rickert and daughter Martha and son Edwin; Mrs. Albert Wilcox and son Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Batton and daughter Leolla and son Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ritchie and son Donovan and Carson Marcey.

At the Grange meeting Wednesday evening a basketball game was played. The score was Royalton 36, and Hobart 21.

The Hobart domestic club met with Mrs. Otto Redman Friday afternoon. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Wesley Batton in two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dearth and daughters Eileen and Elinor were dinner guests at the Victor Casey home last Sunday.

The Delta Alpha Sunday school class will have a Valentine party at the A. W. Ritchie home Monday evening, Feb. 14.

A. W. Ritchie attended the annual meeting and election of officers of the Waupaca County Live-stock Breeders association and banquet at Hotel Dobbins at Weyauwega on Thursday.

Birthday Club Meets At Sugar Bush Dwelling

Sugar Bush — Mrs. Marie Hienke entertained the Birthday club at her home Saturday evening. Eight tables of schafkopf were in play. ## Kaws Drill for Tilt at Menasha

Coach Little Again Orders Practice of Free Throws

Kaukauna — Preparation for this Friday's tilt with Menasha on the Bluejays' home floor were begun yesterday by Coach Paul E. Little's high school cagers, who won their second successive win last Friday night against St. Mary's of Menasha, 25 to 23.

Although the Kaws emerged with the win they were plainly off their form of a week ago at West De Pere, and must show an improvement to be given a chance against Menasha, the only team which has been able to upset Shawano, present conference leader, this season.

After a discussion of errors of the St. Mary game the Kaws went through short offensive and defensive drills, and then practiced their free throw shooting. Improvement in the Zephyr contest over previous games is still far from satisfactory, and each player must take 50 every day.

Foresters Make Plans For Valley Pin Tourney

Kaukauna — Plans for the Fox River Valley Men's Catholic Order of Foresters bowling tournament to be held here were discussed at last night's meeting of Holy Cross Court 309. An effort will be made to get at least 25 bowling teams entered from Kaukauna. Ethan Brewster is chairman for the affair, John Emmerman secretary and Henry Minkbeig and Edmund Mauer assistants.

Unload Brick, Cement For Sewer Projects

Kaukauna — Two carloads of material to be used in the construction of sewers here this year were unloaded yesterday, one carload of cement and one of brick. The cement will be stored on the top floor of the sewage disposal plant and the brick piled nearby. The material will be used in all WPA work here. A carload of sewer pipe will arrive later.

Historical Group Pushes Plans for Old Grignon Home

Restoration of 100-Year-Old Mansion Object Of Program

Restoration of the old Grignon home at Kaukauna to its original state is a project shouldered by the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical society in which the city of Kaukauna and Outagamie county are interested.

The famous mansion, completed in 1838 by Charles A. Grignon, is badly in need of repair. Decay has settled in the lumber that was carried by steamboat from Buffalo. The interior needs renovating.

The historical society has pointed out that if the home is allowed to fall into ruins, this vicinity will lose one of its most widely known tourist attractions. Last summer the list of visitors who entered the Grignon home, which rests in a clump of trees near the Fox river, was the longest on record.

Wolf is Chairman

William Wolf of Appleton is chairman of the committee on restoring the historical mansion to its former grandeur. Other members are Judge Edgar V. Werner, Gustav Keller, and W. E. Smith, Appleton, and James F. Cavanaugh, Kaukauna superintendent of schools.

The county board of supervisors last year agreed to appropriate $4,000 towards its purchase if the city of Kaukauna would match it. The society has promised to raise $3,000 for the home's restoration if the county and Kaukauna buy it.

The home is owned by Grignon heirs, Mrs. Edith Grignon, at present in Chicago, and Deuel Grignon, who lives in California.

The society does not want the home remodeled. The plan calls for strengthening of the building, replacing of rotten lumber with new, and repairing broken fixtures, but preserving the home's original appearance, both inside and out.

Visited by Thousands

The 3-story home contains many valuable antiques and has been visited by thousands of tourists from all parts of the United States in the last four summers that it has been open to the public.

The society hopes not only to improve the building but to restore the landscape to its original state. A painting which hangs in the Kaukauna Public library suggests the scene before the river was harnessed and the locks constructed almost in the front yard. The house was white. A white picket fence surrounded the yard which was filled with trees and shrubs.

Legion to Sponsor City-Wide National Defense Week Program

Kaukauna — A city-wide National Defense week program will be sponsored in the civic auditorium on Monday evening, Feb. 14, by the American Legion, Kaukauna Post No. 41. The chairman for the program is Olin G. Dryer, with William T. Sullivan and James McGrath as members of his committee. No admission charge will be made for the program, which will begin at 8 o'clock.

The main speaker will be Captain Raymond P. Dohr, infantry reserve of Appleton. Major A. O. Kuehnstedt, also of Appleton, will explain the Outagamie county national defense week program.

Music will be furnished by the high school orchestra, the glee club, and the Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps.

8 Receive Awards at Scout Court of Honor

Kaukauna — Eight scouts of Rotary Troop 20 received awards last night at the annual court of honor before a large crowd at the Outagamie Rural Training school auditorium. The scouts and their awards were: Russell Toms, life scout; Richard Hootch, and Ray Nagel, Jr., first class; Ralph Mooney, Eugene Lange and Ivan Schatzke, second class, and Maurice Rosenblatt, tenderfoot.

Commercial League Keglers Meet Tonight

Kaukauna — Bowling will be resumed in the Commercial league tonight at 7 o'clock when the first place Miller High Lites clash with the Post Office five. Also at 7 o'clock the second night Little Chute Bottlers will roll against the Piney Lunch quintet.

At 9 o'clock the Gustmans are matched with the Hopfenspergers, and the third place Gertz Tavern team with the fourth place Mel-low Brews.

NEW JELLY CLEARS STUFFED-UP NOSE LIKE MAGIC

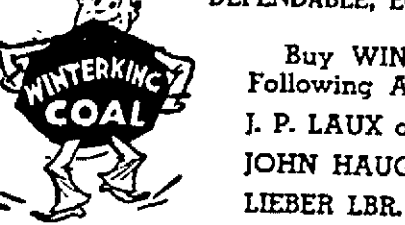

Contains Medications Prescribed by Big City Specialists. Carried Way Back into Nose for More Thorough Relief.

If you've got a mean head cold, or catarrh, and your nose feels all "stuffed up," don't waste your time with make-shifts. Get real relief—quick and long-lasting—just the new Listerine Nose Jelly offers. Its basic medicines are exactly those used by big city specialists.

Users say Listerine Nose Jelly medicates more thoroughly than drops, because it reaches further back in the nose and stays there longer, allowing the medicine a chance to work longer in the affected area. It medicates more thoroughly than oily jellies because it gets better contact with inflamed areas and swollen passages that keep pus, germs and mucus from being discharged.

Listerine Nose Jelly mixes and becomes a part of Nature's nasal secretions, which are watery in character. Therefore it spreads farther and gets wider contact, reducing the swelling, opening up the passages, relieving the inflammation, and showing fresh aromatics up in the nose to clear the head. Don't suffer. Get Listerine Nose Jelly from your druggist, now. Listerine Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Human Life Can be Valued in Dollars, Cents, Club Told

Neenah Insurance Salesman in Talk Before Men's Group

Neenah — Despite the fact that human life can be evaluated in dollars and cents, it is the general misconception of people today that life has no actual value, or at least not on the same level as property. George Cameron, insurance agent, told members of the Neenah club in a sales talk Monday noon at the club dining room.

Declaring that all types of insurance, whether life, property, health or accident, are designed solely for the purpose of replacing a loss, the insurance salesman said that there are only $110,000,000,000 in life insurance outstanding in the United States. He predicted that this figure would be small in comparison with the amount which will be outstanding in the next generation. He did say, however, that the amount was four times as large as the amount 10 years ago.

Cameron compared the total property values with human life values in the United States. The former estimated in 1921 which was considered a normal year, amounted to $350,000,000,000, while the human life value would amount to about $1,380,000,000,000. He said this figure included the total income of wages, salaries, profits from management of business and farms.

Treating the subject impersonally, Cameron said there are three types of economic death: actual, disability or, as he called it, living death, and old age, or the depreciation of life value.

He reasoned that 50 per cent of a man's earned income is consumed by his dependents while the remainder is used by himself, and explained the three ways of covering the 50 per cent with life insurance.

Explains Taxes

Then the insurance agent explained the three separate taxes on insurance and income payable at death. "Most persons don't realize that the income of the deceased during the final year is taxable. That there is a federal tax levied on the estate before it is divided and then there is a state tax against each individual heir upon what they receive."

The federal tax is not levied, however, on life insurance up to $40,000 which may be ignored in the report to the federal government, and then the government allows another $40,000 on which no tax is levied.

There are also exemptions, $15,000 for the widow, $5,000 for the widower and $2,000 for the children.

Red Rockets Seek to Regain Share of Lead in Conference Standings

Neenah — The climax of the Northwestern Wisconsin conference basketball season will be staged Friday night at Shawano when the Neenah High school quintet tangles with the Shawano Indians.

The Red Rockets will be seeking to regain a share of first place in the conference standings, while the Indians will be trying to clinch the title. Although the Indians are in sole possession of the preferred position, Neenah has been threatening Shawano since the season opened.

Shawano has won seven games against one defeat, while Neenah has acquired six victories against two defeats. If Shawano wins they will be leading Menasha, providing the Bluejays also are victorious, by two games, while Neenah will drop into third place and out of the running for the conference championship.

Might Share Title

Should the Rockets topple the Indians, all games following will be anti-climaxes, for the two teams will not meet again. Friday night's conflict being the second game of the season between the two schools. Both schools will be meeting teams they have already defeated during the first half of the season, and it is likely the two teams would finish the season sharing the championship, although an upset is always possible.

Shawano has the edge on Neenah, on paper at least, having defeated Neenah, 18 to 15, on the Neenah floor. Shawano has piled up an enviable record in scoring, netting 243 points to Neenah's 211.

Bill Reed, Shawano, is leading the two teams in scoring, having collected a total of 65 points from 24 field goals and 17 free throws. Captain Jack Hesselman of Neenah is trailing Reed with a total of 53 points from 17 baskets and 19 free throws.

Other high scorers for Neenah are Dan Schmidt with 37 points from 15 baskets and seven free throws; Arthur Jackson with 31 points from 12 field goals and seven free throws; Warren Kettering with 28 from eight baskets and 12 free throws; Harlan Hesselman with 21 from 10 baskets and one free throw and Frank Haertl with 20 from seven baskets and six free throws.

Other high scorers for Shawano are McPerson with 46 points from 17 baskets and 20 free throws; Gottschalk with 30 from 11 baskets and eight free throws; J. Reed with 29 points from six baskets and 17 free throws; Barker with 27 from eight baskets and 11 free throws, and Ramlow with 25 from 10 baskets and five free throws.

Schedule Three Meetings At Twin City Union Club

Neenah — Three local unions have scheduled meetings for the balance of the week at the Twin City Union club. Coopers' local union No. 22 of the Wooden Ware will meet tonight. Common laborers' local union No. 975 has scheduled a meeting for Thursday evening and pulp and sulphite local union No. 201 of the Wooden Ware will meet Saturday.

A general meeting of the club has been called for Wednesday evening. Because of the large union meeting scheduled for Lawrence chapel at Appleton Friday evening, no local unions have arranged meetings for that night.

FRACTURES FOOT

Menasha—Miss Lorraine Christianson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Christianson, 458 Taylor street, fractured her left foot while going to work Monday morning. She slipped on an icy sidewalk at First and Broad streets.

CHARGED WITH MISTREATING CHILD

New charges of "cruelty to an infant" were brought against Martha Harris, 27, and her father, David Harris, 65, when they appeared before a justice of the peace at Connelville, Pa., for imprisoning the girl's daughter in a storage room of their farm home for five years without proper care or nourishment. They are shown as they appeared in court, where they were placed under $1,000 bond. The child, unable to walk or talk, was improving under hospital care.

Stress Engineering Principles In Neenah Manual Arts Classes

Neenah—Neenah High school manual arts department students may not be able to engineer the construction of an Empire State building, a Golden Gate bridge or a Boulder dam, when they graduate from high school, but they are given a good start in learning engineering principles during their four-year course, according to Carl Christianson, manual arts instructor.

Neenah's high school has an exceptionally well equipped wood working shop in which students are taught cabinet making, pattern making, drafting, machine drawing, architecture and free hand drawing. The first two subjects are taught in the wood shop under the direction of Armin Gerhard, and Mr. Christianson teaches the other three courses.

The five courses are correlated, the students studying the principle in drafting and then applying them in the wood shop.

The freshmen are taught elementary drafting which includes orthographic projection and isometric drawing. They draft plans for small pieces of furniture and then make the furniture in the wood shop without the use of machinery, the work being done by hand.

The sophomores study machine drawing and elementary architecture. They draw the various parts of a machine as well as the entire unit and then apply their drawings to pattern making in the woodshop. In the architecture course the students plan a small building, such as a garage, make blue prints, draw a picture of it and then make a small scale model of the structure.

Juniors draft furniture designs which they later construct in the wood shop, making lamps and stands, while in the architecture course they plan an average dwelling, and then make a model.

Advanced machine drawing and advanced furniture design is studied by the seniors. In the first course they draw gear designs and other details of a machine, while in the second course they draw plans for larger and more complicated articles of furniture, such as cabinets, chairs, tables and desks.

Neenah Police in Campaign Against All-Night Parking

Neenah—Police last night opened a campaign against all-night automobile parking in Neenah. Several arrests were made last night, and early this morning. The first violator arrested was Monroe Haire, E. Doty avenue, who was fined $1 and costs when he pleaded guilty of leaving his car on the street all night when arraigned this morning before Justice Gaylord C. Loehning.

Police Chief Charles H. Watts said today that there are altogether too many people leaving their automobiles parked on the street throughout the night in violation of a city ordinance.

The drive against all-night parking was prodded by the difficulties encountered by street crews in clearing the streets of snow and ice while working throughout the night. People left their cars parked in front of their homes and when street crews arrived at those places they were unable to move the cars and had to leave the snow.

150 Attend Masonic, Eastern Star Supper

Neenah — Approximately 150 persons attended the Masons and Neenah chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, covered dish supper and entertainment Monday evening in Masonic temple. Mr. and Mrs. F. # 13 Killed When Soviet Dirigible Hits Mountain While Trying to Save 4 Men bleak, sparsely settled region heard the loud whir of the motors. It ceased suddenly, and rescue parties at once began a search which ended nearly 24 hours later when natives on skis, traveling with reindeer, found the wreckage.

A state funeral is to be accorded the victims in Moscow, and the government decided to give their families pensions and lump payments of about $5,000 each.

The crash was the first major dirigible disaster since the German Hindenburg exploded while mooring at Lakehurst, N. J., May 6, 1937, with a loss of 36 lives. In other dirigible crashes since 1912, 348 persons have died. The Italian dirigible Italia crashed in the arctic in 1928 with loss of six lives.

The continuing rescue efforts for the scientists included departure of the ice breaker Murman from Murmansk yesterday. One of the planes aboard was equipped with skis, and another was amphibian.

HEADS NEW BOARD

Madison—(P)—The new state board of agriculture announced today it had elected Harry Jack, Hortonsville as chairman.

The board held an organization meeting yesterday. It named William Groves of Lodi vice chairman and Milo K. Swanton, Madison, secretary.

The board is a part time organization, replacing the old three man commission, and will have complete control over the policies of the state department of agriculture and mar. etc.

Appointment of a director to administer the affairs of the department will be made later. The agriculture department was one of those revamped by the administration's government reorganization bill.

Resume Talks on Wage Agreement

Conversations in Steel Negotiations May Continue for Several Days

New York—(P)—Representatives of the United States Steel corporation and the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, a CIO affiliate, resumed negotiations today for a new agreement for employees of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, largest of the United States Steel units.

At the conclusion of a brief exploratory session yesterday, Chairman Philip Murray of the steel workers committee, described the meeting as "amicable" and said conversations probably would continue for several days, possibly switching to Pittsburgh.

While the negotiations are concerned primarily with employees of Carnegie-Illinois, whose agreement expires Feb. 28, any new contract would serve as a standard for new agreements with all other companies which have contracts with the S. W. O. C. comprising the bulk of "big steel."

The present contract with Carnegie-Illinois provides for a minimum wage of $5 a day, an eight hour day and a 40-hour week. Members of the workers committee were understood to be directing their efforts toward maintaining these standards, holding that the continuance of present wages in the steel industry would help bolster wage levels generally.

J. Llewellyn Tops Engravers League With Game of 211

Menasha—J. Llewellyn paced the Northwestern Engravers league with a 211 game at the Hendy alleys Monday night. His Badgers dropped two games to the Lions but lost no ground to the second place Wildcats who dropped two to the Tigers. Game scores were 627, 700 and 662 for 1,989 for the Badgers and 667, 671 and 671 for 2,009 for the Lions.

Tigers took two from the Wildcats with W. Resch collecting a 202 and E. Stoll a 201 score. Game scores were 709, 710 and 687 for 2,106 for the Tigers to 661, 669 and 700 for 2,030 for the Wildcats.

Gophers took two games from the Leopards with L. Spalding collecting a 208 score. For the Leopards G. Runde had a 210 and C. Jenkins a 203. Game scores were 651, 649 and 687 for 1,987 for the Gophers and 625, 713 and 677 for 2,015 for the Leopards.

The standings: W. L. Badgers 32 19 Wildcats 25 22 Leopards 25 26 Gophers 22 28 Tigers 22 29

Pastor at Monroe Dies After Prolonged Illness

Monroe, Wis.—(P)—The Rev. Paul Alfred Schuh, 70, for 42 years pastor of St. John's Evangelical church here, died at his home yesterday following a long illness. He was born in Alsace, Germany, and came to the United States in 1887 in response to requests from American immigrants for more ministers. Before coming to Monroe he served a pastorate at Elkhardt Lake, Wis.

Conduct Services For Slain Rector

Coroner Promises to 'Get At the Bottom' of Murder

St. Simons Island, Ga.—(P)—Parishoners of old Christ church gathered today to bury vice-fighting Dr. Charles H. Lee, as Coroner J. D. Baldwin promised to "get at the bottom" of the rector's slaying "if we have to call every man and woman on St. Simons."

The 71-year-old Episcopal churchman was killed by a shot from the dark as he sat working over a sermon in the rectory Saturday night.

Coroner Baldwin, taking cognizance of the theory of friends that the rector's candid comments on wrong-doing might lay back of the killing, said he ordered the inquest for Wednesday specifically "to find out about all the evil doing on the island."

Dr. Lee's pronouncements against vice, his friends explained, usually were made in face to face encounters with individuals rather than from the pulpit.

As concrete clues, the investigators had merely two .38 caliber bullets, one of which killed the rector a short while after the first had missed him, and paper reproductions of footprints found outside the rectory.

A $1,000 reward was offered for solution of the slaying with more than half the sum raised by parishioners of Dr. Lee.

New Advisory Council Will Select Director

Madison—(P)—The advisory council of the new state department of commerce will appoint an administrative director as soon as a subcommittee, chosen at a conference here yesterday, recommends a man for the job.

The council, now composed of 17 business men, held its first meeting with governor LaFollette and elected officers.

Dr. C. E. Albright, Milwaukee, was named Chairman. H. L. Nunn, Milwaukee shoe manufacturer, vice chairman and Ralph S. Kingsley, Kenosha publisher, secretary.

Members of the subcommittee which will choose a director to have active charge of the department, are Dr. Albright, Nunn, Kingsley; A. C. Bolz, Madison and D. C. Everest, Wausau.

The council is a policy-making organization charged with promotion of Wisconsin's commercial interests. It will meet regularly on the third Tuesday of the month.

Exemptions Granted in '37 Transportation Act

Madison—(P)—The public service commission held today that the 1937 motor transportation law granted adult exemptions from flat taxes to dump truck operators and haulers of farm produce.

The law specifically exempted dump truck hauling sand, gravel, dirt, stone, cement or asphalt for highway work within one municipality and adjoining municipalities. The commission ruled if they engage in other hauling exclusively within the same boundaries they will still be exempt from the tax.

It also advised farm haulers they can operate as tax exempt dump truckers within areas comprising adjoining municipalities.

Until this year carriers paid for use of the highways on a mileage tax basis. A flat tax was substituted because the old plan was difficult to administer.

Indiana Puts Ban on Michigan-Made Beer

Indianapolis—(P)—The Indiana Alcoholic Beverages commission invoked provisions of the state liquor control law late yesterday to ban importation and sale of Michigan-made beer, whisky, wine and malt in this state after March 14.

The order was issued in retaliation against a similar edict by the Michigan Liquor commission which prohibits Michigan distributors from handling beer made in Indiana and several other states after that date.

A three-judge federal court at Detroit last week upheld the right of the Michigan commission to issue its order. The Indiana Brewers association plans an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

Child Dies After She Takes Pills as Candy

Madison—(P)—Mary Elizabeth Mutubin, 2, died here yesterday from an overdose of pills when she mistook for candy, according to Coroner Edward A. Fischer.

Fischer said the pills were placed on the floor by a maid, who was cleaning a medicine chest.

Morse Men are Vanishing Breed in News Business

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Chicago—The Morse telegraph operators are a noble but vanishing breed done out of their jobs by the coffee grinders which can push copy along at an average rate of 45 or 50 words a minute.

The coffee grinder falters at nothing, whereas Morse men dropped their average through necessary pauses for unusual words or combination of figures requiring special care.

Not many years ago the only mechanical telegraph device in the United Press office in Chicago was the Morse. It was a nervous contrivance of buzzing gears and rubber letters and numerals enclosed under an inverted gold fish bowl, which supplied the stock quotations and, along in the afternoon, the baseball scores. It also delivered a great deal of pi, for the tape was constantly jumping the sprockets and choking the machinery.

The wheels containing the rubber letters and numerals would ink themselves against a pad on the re- coil and jerk against the tape in an ill-tempered manner, the print often was illegible. It was an evil gadget in its smudgy black heat, and it sired the suave, cold-blooded teletypes of the present day which have driven the Morse men to make-do jobs or to poverty all but extinguished a trade which, at its best, was something of an art and mystery.

The Morse men sitting around the outside of the rim, jiggling their bugs on the west wire or catching the report off the east, were oblivious of the fish bowl and unaware of any men in its wispish buzz and rasp. They sent on the west and received from the east because news, like the light of day and the darkness of night, travels from east to west. An eastern murder, for example, has more prestige than a killing of equal parts occurring to the west of it.

Only Three Left In Office Of The U. P.

Today, in the office of the U. P., there are only three Morse men left and only one working a wire. He is the Postal man. The other two are Roscoe Johnson, the chief operator and former president of the union, whose job is executive and technical, and Tom Curran, in the business end. Mr. Johnson was one of the aristocrats of a proud craft who worked on the rim in the days when the fish bowl was buzzing its threat in the corner and spitting its tape into a tall wire basket. Mr. Curran at that time was a Western Union messenger in Lincoln, Neb., learning to tap out simple words and phrases, as stiff as linoleum cuts and boy dreaming of a day when he would be qualified to hang up his coat and do a trick in any shop in the country. The young ones were fascinated by a means of communication which other people could not penetrate.

Other people could not sit at a table and Morse men could sit at a table and converse in pencil taps, should there ever be reason to, or read the orders for 97 in the railway station.

Mr. Curran was picked green in 1917 when many of the grown men, including Mr. Johnson, who had soldiered '98, rushed into the signal corps and away. Although still a novice he was thrown into a job as a fully qualified Morse man in Charles City, Iowa, a busy wire because the Hart-Parr Tractor Co. was beating plowshares into swords for the government. He faltered badly, and one day the man who was sending from St. Paul broke into an army blurt of those vivid consonant groups with which Morse men can insult one another over long distances.

But The Lady Didn't Send Him Her Picture

"You are no gentleman," Mr. Curran replied.

"Oh, you are a lady?" the man in St. Paul asked.

"Excuse me, I will go slowly and carefully."

The gentleman in St. Paul—he was indeed a gentleman—thereafter sent only nice round dots and nice long dashes, and Mr. Curran was really learning telegraphy. He rushed to answer Chicago and Sioux City, forcing them to route their stuff through the gentleman in St. Paul.

The gentleman asked the lady's name and was told that it was Miss Dorcas Wing. He wrote and Miss Curran replied.

Emergency Loans Soon Available to Farmers

Washington—(P)—The farm credit administration announced today emergency loans will be available within 10 days to financially distressed farmers for planting spring crops and for feeding their livestock through the growing season.

The loans, authorized by congress from a $34,000,000 balance of a similar loan appropriation last year, will be limited as in the past to farmers unable to obtain credit elsewhere. The maximum loan per farmer will be $400. Interest rate will be 4 per cent a year.

Officials said demands for loans were expected to be heaviest in the western plains region, where drought conditions kept many farmers from producing sufficient crops last year to finance operations this year.

Pegler

Wing wrote back. He asked for her picture and Dorcas, however, ceased to write and failed to answer from a photographer's files.

Eventually the gentleman in St. Paul wrote that he had been drafted and was on his way to camp. Dorcas, however, ceased to write and failed to answer even his lonely letters from France signed "your soldier boy."

Mr. Curran hopes that the gentleman in St. Paul came back and thanks him for his patient teaching in telegraphy and hopes that he will forgive all. He was really up against it.

TREAT A COLD AS IF YOU MEAN IT!

Don't Fool Around with Half-way Measures!

One of the worst things you can do is "kid around" with a cold. The so-called "common cold" causes more serious sickness and more enforced absence from work than anything else.

It's a mistake to treat a cold lightly. A cold calls for a cold treatment and not a "cure-all." A cold calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Your Stand-by!

What you should take for a cold are Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ) tablets!

First of all, Bromo Quinine tablets are a real cold medicine, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

Secondly, they are internal medication. They do four things: First, Bromo Quinine tablets open the bowels.

Second, they check the infection in the system.

Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

Fourth, they tone the system and help fortify against further attack.

Bromo Quinine tablets may be taken with confidence.

The fact that they have been on the market for over 40 years and that they are the largest-selling cold tablet in the world, assures you of their reliability.

Your Best Bet!

Bromo Quinine tablets come in 35¢ and 60¢ sizes. The 60¢ size is the better "buy." It gives you almost 20 per cent more for your money.

Remember, as soon as a cold makes its appearance, turn to Bromo Quinine tablets!

Ask for—and demand—Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ) tablets! A reliable druggist will offer you a substitute.

Priest Says Faith and Reason Help Each Other

"THE opposition between science and faith that we hear about so much today is only apparent. It originates either in the errors of scientists who put forth unprovable hypotheses as undoubted facts, or in the mistakes of theologians who teach their private false opinions as gospel truths." These were the words of the Rev. Father Gerard, O. M. Cap., who gave the fourth of a series of lectures and open forums on religion last night at St. Joseph's hall before a crowd of about 300 persons. His subject was "Mysteries in Religion." Father Gerard pointed out that reason and faith are helpful to each other, reason giving faith a solid foundation so that people are not asked to give a blind assent to truths absolutely unknowable, and also furnishing strong extrinsic proofs of the content of divine revelation. Faith, on the other hand, as Cardinal Newman says, "furnishes facts to the other sciences which those sciences left to themselves would never reach, and it invalidates apparent facts which left to themselves they would imagine," the speaker continued.

He explained that mystery is in no way peculiar to religion, showing that science may make continual progress and tell of countless new and marvelous facts, but the how and wherefore of them are utterly beyond its ken.

Quotes Newton He pointed to some of the scientific facts about the universe but said that when science attempts to explain these facts, it can do nothing but coin phrases which only veil the ignorance of their framers.

Father Gerard quoted Newton as saying, "I know the laws of attraction but if you ask what attraction is, I really cannot tell." "Man only comprehends what he has made himself," he continued. "He can understand perfectly the mechanism of a watch because it is his work, but his finite mind cannot comprehend the mysteries of God's world, either of nature or of grace. Perfect comprehension and perfect intelligence belong to God alone."

Belief in mysteries is of the very essence of religion, Father Gerard said. A divine revelation which would only tell us what we already know or what we could readily discover for ourselves would be utterly useless and unmeaning, he continued.

Must Learn From God "Only from God Himself can we learn about His inner Being, the Holy Trinity. His infinite condescension, the incarnation, and His infinite love of men, the atonement or the Eucharist," he added. "Our assent to these dogmas is not a blind assent, but a perfectly reasonable assent that rests solely upon the authority of God who has revealed them to us."

Father Gerard defined faith as believing what God declares to man not because he understands it nor because he approves of it, but simply because God speaks it. By revelation, he said, God gives man knowledge of things beyond his capacity to learn by himself. He also stressed that fact that faith is a virtue and that it involves man's free will. He gave examples of human faith such as belief in the discovery of America by Columbus in 1492, and pointed out that most of man's knowledge depends on the testimony of others in whom he has confidence or faith.

The committee for the tea which will follow the meeting includes Mrs. W. J. Frawley, chairman; Mrs. R. A. Petersen, Mrs. George S. Nolt, Mrs. R. R. Lally, Mrs. Frank Weinkauf and Mrs. E. C. Rehbein.

Quotations from Abraham Lincoln will be given in answer to roll call at the meeting of Sunshine club of George D. Eggleston Relief corps, auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clara Miller, 309 N. Division street. Mrs. Blanche Brinkman will be assistant hostess.

Mrs. Herbert L. Davis will present a paper on "The Elastic Language" as part of the program at the meeting of the Wednesday Musical club tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mark Catlin, 322 South court. Selections by the composers MacDowell, Strauss, Scriabin and Saint-Saens will be presented by Mrs. Ray Petersen, Mrs. Lacey Horton, Mrs. John Balliet and Mrs. Andrew Farnell.

Appleton Listed on Tentative Itinerary Of Haresfoot Players

The University of Wisconsin Haresfoot club is preparing its fortieth anniversary production, "Let's Talk Turkey," and again Appleton is listed in the tentative itinerary. But that's probably as close as it will get to Appleton. The local University tried to make arrangements for presentation of the production variety of Wisconsin Alumni association here last year but was unable to find a suitable place, and the situation is no different this year.

Leaving Madison on Easter night, April 17, the players will tour Wisconsin and parts of Illinois before going to Milwaukee April 23. In addition to Appleton, the other cities listed tentatively on the Wisconsin itinerary are Wausau, Green Bay and Ripon. Following the appearance in Milwaukee, the club will return to Madison, where it will play for two successive weekends.

This year's production, written by Howard Teichmann of Chicago, is a comedy of love and intrigue in Hungary. The principal characters are the son of the caliph of Turkey, who comes to Hungary to borrow money to save his government; the daughter of the shah of Persia, who is traveling incognito in the young man's harem; and an American, the proprietor of a successful chain of goulash stands. The company of 75 Haresfooters will be cast Feb. 15.

Bell Lectures on Work Of St. Francis of Assisi

THE life and works of St. Francis of Assisi were discussed by the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church, in the first of a series of lectures which he entitled "The Greatest Christian Since Christ" Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. W. Schneider, 738 E. Alton street.

The speaker told of the three vows which St. Francis had candidates for his newly organized order take, namely, poverty, chastity and obedience, and said that he stressed the fact that no one could belong to the order who did not give everything he owned to the poor. Ten years after the founding of the Franciscan order, Mr. Bell said, there were missionaries of the order in every civilized country of the world.

A son of the richest merchant of Assisi, St. Francis began his religious life at the age of 20 years, Mr. Bell continued.

The second lecture of the series will take place from 3 to 4 o'clock next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Schneider. Mr. Bell's subject will be "A General in the Army of God."

The Evening circle of the Presbyterian guild of Memorial Presbyterian church will have a Valentine party tonight at the church. Each member will bring a valentine to be exchanged. Games will be played. The committee in charge includes the Misses Dorothy Schenk and Elizabeth Verhey.

The reading circle of First English Lutheran church will meet at 2:15 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gust Radtke, 828 N. Fair street. Mrs. Walter Koerner and Mrs. Floyd Foor will be readers.

Mrs. D. E. Bosserman will give the topic at the meeting of Intermediate Luther League of Trinity English Lutheran church at 7:30 Wednesday night at the church. The meeting will follow choir practice at 7 o'clock.

Neenah, Chilton Coeds Invited to U. of W. Tea Miss Vivian Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Davies, 306 Pine street, Neenah, and Miss Marjorie McGrath, Chilton, were among the house presidents at the University of Wisconsin who received invitations to a tea at Memorial Union in Madison Monday given by the legislative board of Women's Self Government association at the University of Wisconsin. This tea opened social activities of the group which this week is devoting its energies toward orienting new students who are entering the university this semester.

Miss Lois Hubin, Plymouth, a student at Lawrence college, read selections in English from the Mexican poet, Amado Nervo. During the business meeting the constitution was read in preparation for its adoption at the next meeting. The league will meet March 14 at Ormsby hall with Miss Alice Whitcomb and Miss Anna Tarr as hostesses.

Girl Scouts Observe International Month Since February is International month for Girl Scouts, leaders of Appleton troops at a meeting last night at All Saints Episcopal parish hall discussed programs which could be put on in observance of this month. Miss Jane Taylor spoke on the international aspect of girl scouting, and Miss Dorothy Calnin, local director, told of new program developments, which she learned at a directors' meeting in Chicago over the weekend.

THE WEEK'S GAMES

Tuesday—Seymour at Kaukauna (Little Chute).

Tuesday—New London at Company D (postponed).

Tuesday—Town Taxis at Black Creek.

Thursday—Little Chute at Hortonville.

COUNTY league basketball teams will start the week's wars this evening with games at Little Chute and Black Creek and will close Thursday night with a game at Hortonville. One game, New London at Company D, has been postponed because Armory G is in use this evening.

The game at Little Chute will show the Kaukauna Knights of Columbus battling the Seymour entry at St. John school gymnasium starting at 8:30. There will be a preliminary game at 7:15 between the Little Chute Legion and the Mellow Brews of Kaukauna.

In the last meeting of Seymour and the Knights, the latter scored a close win. Since then the north-ern team has shown improved play. The Kaws have strengthened their battle front, too, and indications are the game will be a thriller.

Kaukauna's new talent includes Chuck Arnold and "Red" Koehne, the former a center and the latter a sharp-shooting forward. Three Little Chute performers still are with the squad in Jack and Bob Lamers and Paul Jensen.

The preliminary at 7:15 also promises to be a struggle. The Legion has arranged the game as a warmup for its big battle with Kimberly next Sunday but the Kaukauna team realizes a win would give it a lot of prestige.

Town Taxis will take the hop to Black Creek where the villagers are certain their home court jinx will throw the Appleton team for a loss. Slattery, Ebke, Hammer and Zimmerman will furnish the bulk of the Taxi attack while the LeCapitaine brothers, Fitzgerald and Single probably will be in starring roles for Black Creek.

V. De Decker rolled games of 230 and 210, finishing with a 632 series, and L. Zumbach shot a 202, but their team, Machines, dropped two games to the Beaters in the Riverside Bowling league last night at Arcade alleys. Fo, the Beaters, J. Guilfoyle bowled a 229, C. Hawkins 205, B. Bell 200, and H. Hove 219 and 355.

J. Liebhauser pounced 232 and E. Davis 201, 214, and 605 as the Executives won two from the Printers, paced by H. Vander Linden who had 207, 220, and 617. O. Sammers with 200, J. Giesbers with 230, and W. Centner with 204.

With H. Blich shooting 263 and 575 and V. Grunst, 212, Finishers won two from Banders, headed by M. Zierner and C. Wilz, each hitting 540.

R. Miller smashed 216, 204, and 576, M. Werner 211, S. Westberg 206, and A. Arfstrom 214 as Brackets swept their match with Rulers. For the losers, A. Lemke turned in 219 and 545.

Gehrig, Ruppert Get Together for Contract Confab

Believe Lou May Get Better Of Salary Dispute For 1938

NEW YORK.—(U.P.)—The Yankees' contract problems were scheduled to reach a crisis today in the star-chamber session between the world champions' millionaire owner, Colonel Jacob Ruppert, and their high-salaried first baseman, Lou Gehrig.

The Colonel and Lou were meeting in the former's ornate brewery office, the same room in which the colonel and Joe DiMaggio had their $15,000 difference of opinion some weeks ago. Gehrig, baseball's highest-salaried player, was demanding an increase over his $36,000 wage of last season.

Expect Gehrig to Sign

Chances were, in the opinion of most observers, that the veteran first-sacker would be able to talk Colonel Ruppert out of a quick raise, because the Yankees are exceedingly anxious to get him signed. They want to discourage DiMaggio in his wild-eyed request for a $40,000 contract.

Gehrig would be the first of the club's big money boys to sign and his surrender would do a lot to alleviate the holdout headaches. Lefty Gomez, Bill Dickey and Red Ruffing are on the verge of coming to terms, the Associated Press learned, and Gehrig is depended upon to lead them into the fold.

DiMaggio Firm

If, on the other hand, Columbia Lou should get stubborn today and stick with it, the champions might wind up with a real spring problem. There seems no doubt now that DiMaggio intends to hold out right into the opening of camp at St. Petersburg on March 7.

Gehrig, just returned from Hollywood, where he played the part of a roofer, tootin' cowpuncher in his first movie, hadn't discussed contract with his bosses prior to today's meeting. He received the club's offer of another $36,000 season, stuck it in his chaps and came home. He called Colonel Ruppert upon his arrival yesterday and said he wanted to talk it over.

The Yankees aren't at all pleased with DiMaggio. They feel that his salary demand is out of reason, and also that he has been talking too much. Ruppert regards himself as a very big-hearted, liberal individual, and feels that his offer of $25,000 to "that young man" was more than sufficient. He's feeling very stubborn about it.

Intends to Play Hockey Despite Father's Death

Chicago.—(U.P.)—Misfortune again has struck the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team which will play Boston tonight in the first of a three game road series. Before leaving Chicago, Roger Jenkins, Blackhawks wing, was notified of the death of his father in Edmonton, Canada.

Since it will require four days to bring the body to Appleton, Wis. for burial and since the Hawks already are shy manpower through injuries to Mush March, Art Wiebe, Harold Jackson and Louis Trudell, Jenkins insisted on making the trip for the Boston game. Jenkins' mother died a month ago.

Guardsmen Lose To Chuter Quint

Kneip Gets 18 Points for Soldiers but Mates Let Him Down

Norman Kneip, forward, scored eight field goals and two free throws for eighteen points at the armory last evening, but they weren't enough to give Company D a win over the Little Chute Merchants. The final count was Merchants 34, Guards 31.

Company D jumped away to a 15 to 9 lead at the quarter but the Chuters were back in front, 19 to 16, at the half. In the third period the score was 23-11.

The box score:

	G. F. T. Pct.	Points
Kneip	8 2 20	18

KNEIP LEADS SCORERS

With 75 field goals and 20 free throws in 24 games, Norman Kneip is leading the Company D basketball squad with 170 points. Johnny Bauer is next on the list with 165 points from 74 field goals and 21 free throws. However, Bauer has played one less game.

Scoring figures for the team follow:

	G. F. T. Pct.	Points
Kneip	24 10 34	170
Bauer	23 9 32	165
Fleiblich	22 12 34	150

Delivers Ultimatum To Sox First Baseman

Chicago.—(U.P.)—Jimmy Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, headed west today—a jump ahead of his spring training entourage. But it was not without a few express thoughts in regard to his six holdouts and to Zeke Bonura in particular.

In addition to the big first baseman, the unsigned included Rip Radcliffe, Boze Berger, Ted Lyons, Luke Sewell and Sugar Cain.

After a conference with Sox Owner Louis Comiskey, Dykes leveled off verbally on holdouts in general and Bonura in particular. "If he doesn't get his contract difficultly ironed out," Dykes said, "you may see a guy by the name of Rupert Thompson playing first."

Jankowski to Finish Course at University

Forster's Elights won two games from Heinie's Halves and vaulted into first place in standings. L. Horn's 203, 214 and 613 were the big scores for the Forsters. J. Kasperick rolled a 200 for the Halves.

Leading Golfers Prepare for Meet At San Francisco

San Francisco.—(U.P.)—Professional and amateur golfers shot practice rounds today for the national match play open championship starting with an 18-hole qualifying test here tomorrow.

Tournament officials said more than 175 had entered. Rain was in prospect but soggy or dry the San Francisco golf club course, with its 6,791 yards and 152 traps, was a stern challenge, even to such long drivers as Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa., and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., victor at Sacramento and top money winner of the season, with $2,423 is one of the favorites. The 36-hole, two-day qualifying round will reduce the field to 32, who will play two rounds of match play Friday and two Saturday with 36-hole finals Sunday.

BLOOMINGTON, IND.—(U.P.)—Indiana University slapped a 47 to 44 basketball defeat on Wisconsin's Badgers here last night, in a game in which the count was knotted three times in the last half before the Hoosiers finally pulled away.

Indiana grabbed a 28 to 23 lead in the first half with Andres scoring ten points. Shortly after the start of the final period, George Rooney began pitching in one-handed shots for Wisconsin and the Badgers went ahead, 31 to 30. The score was tied at 32, 33 and 35 before Johnson, McCreary and Platt again shot Indiana into the lead.

Johnson accounted for fifteen points during the game. Andres for fourteen and Rooney for thirteen.

PURDUE WINS

Chicago.—(U.P.)—Purdue, perennially a team of speed and power on the basketball court, was discovered it also can cash in on a waiting game.

Last night the Boilermakers rode into a tie with Northwestern for first place in the Big Ten conference race by defeating Illinois 23 to 13. Only ten shots were taken by the two teams in the last half as Purdue, leading 20 to 11, held the ball 14½ minutes at the center line.

When the Illini finally decided to go after the ball, they had time to score only one basket while Purdue counted three points. Jewel Young, Boilermaker forward, topped the individual scorers with seven points. The Illini had only four goals for their evening's effort.

In contrast, the three other conference games last night were replete with action. Ohio State and Minnesota won in the last minute, while Indiana subdued Wisconsin 47 to 44 after a ding-dong last half that found the scored tied frequently.

Chicago Loses Close Game

Ohio State, by defeating Chicago 36 to 34 on a last minute basket by Jim McDonald and a free throw by Richard Boughner, dispensed Wisconsin as fourth place holder in the standings. The Buckeyes were hard pressed throughout by the Maroons, who suffered their 21st straight conference setback. Not since February, 1934, when they defeated Iowa 41 to 40, have the Chicagoans won a game.

A field goal by Paul Maki with only seconds remaining gave Minnesota a 28 to 26 decision over Iowa. A moment before the winning basket, Iowa missed its opportunity by connecting on only one of three straight free throws. Johnny Kundin of Minnesota and Ben Stephens of Iowa each scored 10 points.

THEY'LL FIGURE IN VIKE CAGE DRIVE

When Lawrence college cagers take the floor tonight at Beloit to start the second semester's play, they'll be aiming at a strong four weeks' of activity to make the season a success. Two of the junior members of the team who'll play a part in the squad's work are Harry Jackson, left above, and Norman Faleide. Jackson is a forward and Faleide a guard. Lawrence makes its next home appearance on Feb. 18. (Post-Crescent Photo)

MONDAY'S GAMES
Black Hawks versus Wildcats.
Panthers versus Mercury.
Badgers versus Hawks.

Vikings were crowned champions of the first round of the American division of the Older Boys League when they defeated Post Hi-Y, 44 to 14, for their fifth straight win in a tilt at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday.

Badgers and Mercury finished in a first place tie for the National division first half title as the result of victories over Black Hawks, 39 to 17, and Hawks, 26 to 22, respectively, last evening.

Other Saturday tilts resulted in a win for the Blue Birds over Buckeyes, 22 and 6, and a victory for Red Wings, 17 to 5, over Fords. Panthers defeated Wild Cats, 30 to 16, last evening.

Vikings had little difficulty in disposing of the last place Post Hi-Y and took a 12 to 2 margin at the end of the first quarter. They increased the advantage to 20 to 3 at half-time and the score stood 44 to 14 at the end of the third quarter. Rouse scored twenty points on six buckets for the winners and Nuotter hit the hoop for six points on two baskets and two charity throws.

Red Wings encountered little difficulty in subduing the Fords and won by a score of 17 to 5 after leading, 4 to 2, 6 to 5, 12 to 5, at the end of the first three periods. Scherke was high for Red Wings with four baskets and Filz had one field goal and a free toss for the losers.

Badgers Romp To Win
Badgers romped to a 39 to 17 win over the Black Hawks by leading 11 to 6, 21 to 10 and 29 to 12 at the end of the first three stages of the tilt. DeDecker poured five baskets and a free throw for eleven points into the hoop and Hoepner caged 11 points for the losers.

Mercury nosed out the fighting Hawks in the last half after a commanding lead had been slashed. Mercury held a 12 to 2 edge at the end of the first quarter and a 16 to 9 margin at the halfway mark. Hawks garnered seven points in the third frame against three for Mercury. Lathrop and Gertsch scored six baskets and two gift shots while Shinnars paced the losers with six points on three field goals.

Wild Cats played steady ball for the first 11 minutes of the game against Panthers but faltered long enough to allow the Panthers to run up a 14-point lead. The score stood 7 to 6 at the end of the first stanza and 19 to 12 at half-time for Panthers. Pegel topped Wild Cats with four baskets for eight points and Kobal connected with 11 points on five baskets and one free throw.

Jones Optimistic About U. W. Track

Lost 18 of 25 Letter Winners; Lawrence on Indoor Schedule

Madison — Faced with the loss of 18 out of 25 athletes who won letters last season, Tom Jones, veteran Wisconsin track coach, will have to develop a team largely from sophomore material this year.

However, Jones, who is starting his twenty-seventh year as track tutor of the Badgers and has never been known to complain about his material, merely says: "It just means we'll have to work that much harder."

To make matters a bit worse, two of his veterans—Arthur Mehl, who is a sophomore last year ran the half around 1:57, and Bob Brandt, a consistent scorer in the hurdles—are nursing injuries which will probably keep them out of competition during the entire indoor season and may even handicap them heavily outdoors. Both were regarded as probable mainstays of the 1938 team and, incidentally, neither was hurt in training.

Outstanding veteran of Coach Jones' squad is, of course, Charles (Chuck) Fenske, West Allis senior, one of the fastest milers in college track competition today. Fenske has run the mile in 4:11 and can turn in a good performance at either a half-mile or two miles. He was a member of the American team which toured Japan last summer and ran all three distances in different meets in Nippon on that trip.

The other experienced members of the current Badger squad who are considered potential point winners in dual competition are Bradford Towle and George Pratt, senior two-milers; Riley Best, junior high jumper, who was fairly consistent at 6 feet 2 inches last year; Milton Badway, 12 foot pole vaulter; and Warren Schmidt, a senior who has cleared 23 feet in the broad jump.

Wisconsin's indoor track schedule is as follows:

Feb. 12—Marquette at Madison.
Feb. 19—Triangular—Wisconsin, Chicago and Purdue at Lafayette.
Feb. 26—Minnesota at Minneapolis.

March 4—Iowa at Madison.
March 11—Conference at Chicago.
March 19—Armour Tech relays.
March 26—Chicago relays; Lawrence college at Madison.

April 9—A.A.U. Track Meet at Madison.

Marquette Five To Meet Irish

Game Slated Wednesday Evening at Milwaukee Auditorium

Milwaukee—(AP)—Making its second last home appearance of the season, the Marquette University basketball team battles a Notre Dame University quintet on the Auditorium floor tomorrow night in what is forecast as the feature game on the Chandermen's schedule.

Notre Dame, campaigning with all the veterans who made up last year's outstanding quintet, is rated as Marquette's most formidable opponent to date.

The game will be the twenty-fifth in a series that began in 1920.

Northwestern Guard Declared Ineligible

Chicago—(AP)—Scholastic ineligibility, which has been leaving its mark in several Big Ten conference basketball camps following semester examinations, hit the league leading Northwestern Wildcats yesterday. Bernard Davis of Chicago, junior regular at guard, was the victim. Coach "Dutch" Lonborg said Jim Currie, another junior, would replace him in Northwestern's next game at Wisconsin Saturday.

SPORT OF ICE-FISHING
By O. Warren Smith

As to the reasonableness of ice-fishing for game fish there is more than a question, though there is no question as to its joyfulness for the red-blooded outdoor enthusiast. Rightly, I think, many states are forbidding the sport, while others restrict it. Not because fishing through the ice is taking a mean advantage of the fish, is "unsportsmanlike," but because farming the water the year around is indeed burning the candle at both ends. One should look up the law in his state before thinking further of the sport. Wisconsin allows or has allowed, ice-fishing up to January 1st for game fish, thereafter only cisco can be taken. I am fully in accord with the restriction, with any restriction that will increase our summer sport.

So, then, this article is in a sense a autobiographical, for fishing through the ice on Lake Superior for lake trout, is a sport a bit strenuous for me. These wide open spaces, with a good stiff gale, certainly call for stamina,—he-man stuff. If I were a young man, however, I think you would see me running over the ice, heavy line over my shoulder, racing to snare the lake trout from the water before he ejected the hook.

The ice-fishing I loved in the good old days, was with "tip-ups," the game being for the most part yellow perch. The tip-up I used was a thin, oblong board of 18 or 20 inches; a hole being bored through the tip-up, say a fourth of the distance from the smaller end. Foisted to say that the tip-up tapered from 21 inches at one end, to about 11 inches at the other. The hole was bored through the smaller end. A branch was cut on the shore, and thrust through the hole, the ends resting on the ice, either side the hole. The tip-up could be made and rigged with line, sinker and hook at home, the latter wound upon the tip-up; a great advantage around zero, or a strong wind was blowing across the white surface.

Now there is more to cutting a hole through a foot and a half of ice than the uninitiated imagine. The picture we have is that of a round hole, indeed, I have read that we should cut such a hole, "keeping the ice in the center intact," and lifting it out! Unfortunately it seldom remains intact, and anyway, a long time is better, easier to make, and altogether satisfactory. The fisherman will not be apt to "back" his fingers on the rough edges, as he will when the ice is thick, and the chopping is easier. Never strike through into the water until the very last moment, hollowing out the hole perfectly as you work down. Once the water is reached, the hole fills and chopping becomes difficult. An ice-chisel with a long handle is most convenient, as is some sort of strainer to remove the floating particles of ice—a tin can with holes punched in the bottom can be made to serve.

Undoubtedly the best winter bait is small shiner minnows. I take it the angler is thinking of perch, for of course if great pike and pickerel are quested, larger minnows are more attractive. Worms are good too, for the smaller fish, and can be found in saw-dust and compost heaps under which the ground is not frozen. In the old days, I have even caught my first perch by dangling a bit of red cloth, and then using its flesh for bait. It is real sport, believe me, but you, Reader, should "look up the law" before essaying it.

NORMAN, OKLA.—(AP)—Razzle-dazzle—once confined to football—has been hauled out on the basketball court by a sturdy gang of University of Oklahoma youngsters.

And they're setting a scorching pace in the Big Six conference.

When the season started, only one man on the squad ever had scored a point in collegiate competition. He was Bill Martin, senior guard.

But Hugh McDermott, the stubby scotchman who has been coaching Sooners basketball 17 years, had cultivated his finest crop of freshmen.

Eighty Gridders Report for U. W. Spring Practice

Karl Schuelke, Backfield Prospect, Returns To Uniform

Madison—(AP)—Eighty candidates for the 1938 University of Wisconsin football team started spring practice yesterday.

The squad consists of freshmen and several upper classmen who have never reported for the grid sport. Practice will be held in the stock pavilion. About the last week of March, Coach Harry Stuhldreher will take his charges onto the practice field.

The first week will be utilized in setting up and conditioning exercises. Body contact work will come later.

Among the upper classmen reporting was Karl Schuelke, one of the finest backfield prospects ever to come to Wisconsin. He played halfback in 1934 but dropped out of school for a year because of rheumatic fever.

Jim Dean, Madison, who called signals on one of Navy's plebe teams, also reported. He has one year of competition remaining.

Freshmen standouts reporting were: George Pavkan, LaGrange, Ill., fullback; Eddie Olson, Kenosha, quarterback; "Bud" Kabat, and Ervin Camp, Milwaukee, halfbacks; Dick Dozier, Rhinelander, center; Karl Faust, Mayville and Baptiste Mazza, Houston, Pa., guards and Erik Fagerstrom, Madison, tackle.

An intra-squad game will end the practice session, May 14. On May 16-7 coaches clinic will be held in conjunction with the drills. College and high school coaches from all over the country are expected to attend. Theory will be discussed in the morning meetings and actual operation in the afternoon.

George Pipgras Getting Kick Out Of Umpiring Job

St. Petersburg, Fla.—(AP)—George Pipgras, who wrote three world series victories into the record books, gets just as big a kick out of umpiring as he did out of hurling his famous fireball for the New York Yankees.

His two seasons as an arbiter in the Eastern league, he says, were "as eventful as any of my 13 years in the majors."

"I've had my share of thrills during my years of service with the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, but I get just as much kick out of baseball in the umpire ranks," declared the veteran pitcher whose ambition now is to break into the big leagues again—this time as an umpire.

"You don't get any newspaper headlines," he remarked, "but it's great work nevertheless."

As a pitcher, Pipgras recalled that he kicked plenty when he thought the umpire called one wrong, but he sees the errors of his former ways now.

"Bill Klem used to say that he never made a mistake in his life. I never believed him until I started umpiring, and then I realized what Bill meant."

"Bill was calling 'em from the heart every time—in his own mind he knew he was always right."

His condition is considered favorable.

The weekly rehearsal of the choir of St. John church will be held at 8:15 Friday evening.

OSHKOSH STARS COP Plainfield (3) — The Oshkosh All-Stars defeated Kankakee, Ill., in a professional basketball exhibition game here last night, 56 to 40.

Boy Scouts Attend Annual Court of Honor at Waupaca

Waupaca — The annual court of honor of the Waupaca boy scouts, Troops 34 and 36, was held in the gymnasium of the high school Monday evening with Roy Holly, scout commissioner, in charge.

A pot luck dinner, planned by "Aunt Maude" Ziebell, was served to nearly 200 scouts, their parents and scout leaders, at 7 o'clock. Guests from out-of-town were H. R. Hertz, scout executive, E. J. Ledvina, president of the Twin Lakes Council, George P. Nevitt, president of the Oshkosh district and commissioner, and Mrs. Nevitt, all of Oshkosh; Messrs. and Mesdames Fritz Bauer and William Nienhaus of Weyauwega.

Music during the dinner was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of E. V. Hagdahl. The scout blessing by Roy Holly and the pledge of allegiance preceded the dinner.

Master of Ceremonies Roy Holly opened the program with an introduction of all officers of the council and of those of the district. Officers of the council are H. R. Hertz, E. J. Ledvina and George P. Nevitt; of the district, Horace Christoph, chairman; S. W. Johnson, chairman of the court of honor and of the finance committee; Reuben Danielson, secretary; Olaf Skye, member-at-large. Contacts between the troops and outsiders is maintained by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion. The committee representing the Jaces, sponsors of Troop 34, are Reuben Danielson, Barney Pommer and Basil Barnhart; of the American Legion, R. E. High and Paul Ovrom. H. E. Peterson, third member of the committee was not present.

Scoutmasters Reuben Nelson of Troop 34 and Robert Holly, Jr., of Troop 36 were introduced, as were their assistants, Donald Jensen and Philip Larson of Troop 36, both of whom have grown up within the ranks, and Albert Holly and Henry Lampman of Troop 36.

Dr. A. M. Christofferson, retiring president of the Waupaca district, was introduced as "the key man of the district."

Chairman Christoph paid tribute to "Aunt Maude" when presenting her with a gift of roses from the scouts, by saying "she is the one who does the work." Mrs. Ziebell responded by saying, "My greatest joy comes from working with the boy scouts; I love each and every one of them."

Awards Are Made
S. W. Johnson, chairman of the court of honor, invited the three executives of the Twin Lakes Council to conduct the court and award the honors. Commissioner Nevitt asked Scoutmaster Reuben Nelson of Troop 34 to invest those who were entering the ranks of tenderfoot scouts with their insignia, and the following received their pins and certificates, Theodore Cook, Alfred Opitchek, Laverne Bonnell, Laverne Larson and Robert Baddin who had earned the award, were not present.

Installed as second class scouts were Louis Hanson and Gene Bradley of Troop 34 and Robert Bradley of Troop 36. Mr. Ledvina presented first class awards to Bobby by Christofferson and Larry Woody. Merit badges were awarded Wendall McHenry for reading, first aid to animals, scholarship and personal help; Ward Rudersdorf for reading, bird study, personal help, photography and gardening; William Rudersdorf for bird study, gardening, photography, public health and personal help; Sam Taylor for cooking and personal help; Roger McLean for public health; Billy Nelson for public health and cooking; and Tom Holly for personal help and cooking.

Star scouts who received their investitures were Ward and William Rudersdorf and Wendall McHenry.

Mr. Nevitt, introduced by Roy Holly as the "second oldest scout in point of service in the Twin Lakes Council area," briefly outlined the advantages of the scout program, stressing particularly the fact that "it stimulates the imagination." To the scout whose brains may have said, "It is just too bad that you are graduating now when there are no jobs," he said, "nothing is complete, the greatest poem has never been written nor has the greatest picture ever been painted. Everything can be improved, it is all a matter of the imagination."

"Scouting teaches sportsmanship," declared Mr. Nevitt, adding that scout-trained boys are among the leaders in the world. "We are mobilizing our scouts for peace," said Mr. Nevitt, "trying through scouting to emphasize friendliness, and we are really accomplishing something."

The scout benediction, pronounced by Mr. Hertz, concluded the program.

Guests included, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rueden, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Peep, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Diemer, Mr. and Mrs. Rolfe Helser, Mr. and Mrs. George Bruchel, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. William Rusch.

Members of St. Ann's Altar society will conduct their monthly meeting at their parish hall Thursday afternoon. Cards will be played. The committee includes Mrs. Anna Achnor and Mrs. Richard Beyer.

The Royal Neighbors will hold their monthly meeting Tuesday evening. The hostesses are Mrs. Tunis Booth and Mrs. Glen O'Brien. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Booth of Green Bay spent Sunday at the home of the former parents Mr. and Mrs. Louis Booth. Mr. Booth, who has been employed the last four years as pharmacist at the Central Drug Store in the Bellin building in Green Bay, has purchased a half interest in this business owned by Nezu and Holzer, from the latter. The business will be known hereafter as Nezu and Booth. Harold is a graduate of Shiocton high school and of Marquette university, Milwaukee, where he received his degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Palmer and Mrs. Howard Palmer were Clintonville visitors Saturday. They were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Herb Palmer who spent Sunday with Shiocton relatives and friends.

Mrs. Alice Felsner and Earl Feustel were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ivo Heutel at Seymour. Mr. Feustel, who has been employed at Oshkosh for the last eight years, will leave for Green Bay this week where he has employment.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor

Philadelphia—(AP)—The electric light of the future will change colors at the turn of a switch.

This is one of the tricks of tellurium vapor, now only a laboratory curiosity, described in the Journal of the Franklin Institute. Tellurium is a non-metallic chemical element, one of the 92 primary substances forming earth, sun and other planets.

It's a cousin of sulphur and often is found in small quantities in gold and silver. It is used for coloring glass and porcelain and for some electrical apparatus.

But J. W. Marden, N. C. Beese and George Meister have developed an electric light by placing a little tellurium in a bulb where it will vaporize when the current is turned on. Tellurium melts at about 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit, so that it is easy to produce the vapor.

Through this vapor an electric current will flow just as through a filament making the vapor glow brilliantly.

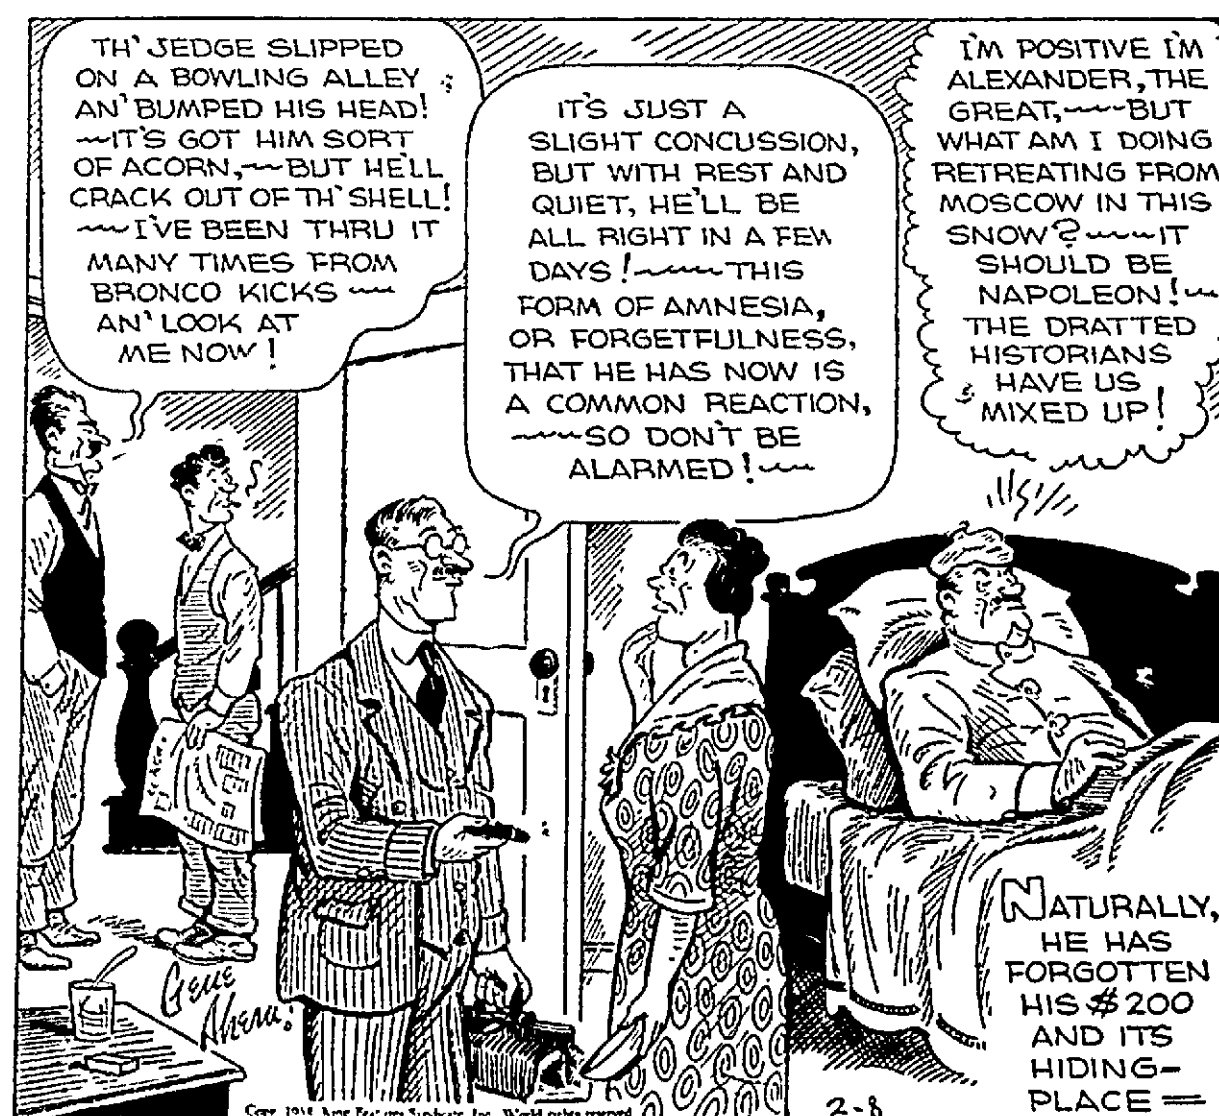

The peculiarity is that tellurium vapor changes from blue-white to yellow to bright gold as the heat rises with an increase of electric current.

Bunge Funeral Rites Are Held in Seattle

Bear Creek — Mrs. George Oshgar of this vicinity received the news of the death of her sister, Mrs. Charles Bunge, 71, which occurred at Seattle, Wash., Feb. 3. The funeral was held there Monday morning at the Sacred Heart church. Mrs. Bunge, who was a former Aniwia, Wis., resident spent last summer here visiting Mrs. Oshgar and the two sisters made a trip north and visited with friends at Aniwia and Eagle River.

New London — Mrs. David Rickaby entertained the past presidents of the Women's Relief corps at her home yesterday afternoon. Prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Ed. Jagoditch, Mrs. Ed. Kleinbrook and Mrs. Nellie Wells. Mrs. William McNichols was a guest. Mrs. Augusta Brenske, a non-member who has frequently been a guest of the group, has invited the past president of the corps to her home for the next meeting, March 7.

Circle 1 of the Ladies Aid society of Congregational church will meet at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. D. N. Stacy. Project work will be planned.

Mrs. Austin Dexter will be assisting hostess when circle 3 meets at the home of Mrs. J. F. Seering this evening.

High School Juniors To Hold Party Friday

New London — The junior class at Washington High school will hold its annual class party at the school Friday evening, from 8 o'clock to 11. Games and dancing will provide entertainment with cake and ice cream for lunch. Warren Spurr is chairman of the entertainment group and Orrella Saindon is in charge of refreshments.

Senior and junior class advisors have been invited as chaperons. Teachers in the two groups are Miss Alma Halverson, D. N. Stacy, E. N. Calef, A. F. Christ, Miss Mabel Nock and G. M. Charlesworth. Music will be furnished by high school talent.

Old Steamer Used to Open Street Drains

New London — The old steamer of the New London street department was called into service yesterday as workmen sought to thaw out catch basins on the city's main streets. Many were uncovered by hand and opened Saturday when streets and roadways were inundated with waters from melting snow. The basins were frozen yesterday while water continued to run down the main thoroughfares. The department is still engaged in snow removal work.

New London Teachers

Hear Talks on Tests

New London — The New London Teachers association held its monthly meeting at Washington High school yesterday afternoon. Talks on academic tests and measurements were given by A. A. Vorba, science and mathematics instructor at the local school, and George H. Schriver, principal at Lincoln Junior High school.

New London Office

News and circulation departments of the Appleton Post-Crescent are represented in New London by Alvin J. Brault, 103 E. Cook street. News items and orders for subscriptions may be left at that address or may be telephoned by calling 18. Papers missed by carriers will be delivered if complaint is made before 7 p. m.

Boy Scouts Demonstrate Work at School Assembly

New London — Interest in the Boy Scout movement was aroused among New London boys when members of American Legion Troop 7 presented a demonstration program before an assembly of Lincoln Junior High school students at the school yesterday afternoon. After the program many inquired how to join the Boy Scouts, according to the Rev. R. R. Holliday, scoutmaster. It is expected a new tenderfoot class will be initiated soon.

The program was part of the troop's observance of National Boy Scout week this week. In a 5-minute talk to the pupils, the Rev. Mr. Holliday outlined the benefits and advantages of boy scout work. Much enthusiasm was evidenced when he announced that a Girl Scout troop was being considered.

In the program yesterday Alan Ziebur and Robert Seering demonstrated fire by friction and James Kuehlman, Robert Vanderveer and Dick Wyman illustrated knot tying work. First aid was shown realistically by Alan Ziebur, Ernest Holliday, Jack Seering and Dick Wyman. One of the boys slipped and fell while crossing the assembly floor and the others bandaged him up for all types of injuries and carried him off on a stretcher made of coats.

The same program with additions will be presented at a Parent's night supper and informal court of honor at the American Legion clubhouse tonight. The program will begin about 7 o'clock. Merit badges and emblems will be awarded to several scouts and a number of class advancements will be announced.

Pleads Guilty of Drunken Driving

New London Man Fined in Police Court; License Revoked

New London — Christy Kalwitz, Jr., 318 Warren street, pleaded guilty of drunken driving when he was arraigned before Justice F. A. Archibald in police court yesterday afternoon. He was fined $50 and costs under the city ordinance and under the provisions of the state law fined an additional $1 and his driver's license was revoked for one year. He made arrangements to pay the fine.

Hatten Union Hearing Will Be Held Monday

New London — The hearing on the application of the Hatten Employees association for listing as a bona fide labor organization with the state labor relations board will be held here Monday afternoon, Feb. 14, according to notice received from the board yesterday. The employees association is an independent union formed last summer.

J. K. Kyle, executive secretary of the board, explained recently that a union cannot become a bargaining agent in a plant unless it has been listed by the board. The Lumber and Sawmill Workers, Local 2876, an American Federation of Labor affiliate which was organized by employees of the Hatten Lumber company three weeks ago, has been listed by the board.

Debaters Perform at Rotary Club Meeting

New London — The Washington High school debate team entertained the Rotary club at the Elwood hotel yesterday noon with the debate argument, unicameral legislation for the states. Saturday the team will compete in the Oshkosh district conference tournament at Appleton. Debating in the affirmative are Robert Wilkinson, Lois Vandenberg and Maurice Levine; negative, Alan Fonstad, Harry Herres and John Calef. Warren Spurr is alternate for the negative and Alan Ziebur for the affirmative. The students have appeared frequently before clubs and organization groups in the city the last few weeks and have participated in practice meets at other schools. Saturday's tournament is the first official conference contest. The group will be accompanied by H. H. Brockhaus, debate coach.

William Dent Named Temporary Fire Chief

New London — William Dent has been named temporary chief of the New London Fire department and Dan Rex assistant chief in new appointments by the police and fire commission revealed at the monthly meeting of the department last night. The men will serve in the absence of Chief C. J. Dean and assistant H. G. Freuburger, who are vacationing in Florida. Other appointments are Leo Herres, first lieutenant, and Ralph Reile, second lieutenant. Last night firemen tested the two pumper trucks at the pumper head at the end of N. Pearl street.

New London Personals

New London — L. M. Warner, agricultural instructor at Washington High school, was absent from school yesterday because of illness. He expects to return to work this week. Stanley Ziemer is substituting as instructor. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hurley, Bear Creek, at Community hospital Monday. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Donal, route 1, Ogdensburg, yesterday at Community hospital.

Town of Hortonia Farmer Hurt When Attacked by Bull

New London — Edward Roloff, town of Hortonia farmer, is recovering from an attack by a bull at his farm Friday night.

Roloff was attacked by the animal in its stall about 9 o'clock Friday evening and was thrown from the box unconscious. He was found about an hour and a half later when members of the family became anxious and went to the barn for him. He suffered contusions of the body and particularly his left arm which was badly bruised.

The injured man was brought to a physician's office here for treatment. The farm is about three miles south of New London on Highway 45.

Library Board Is Picked at Fremont

Various Village Organizations Represented On Group

Fremont — The following have been elected to the library board from each organization in the village: Mrs. Kenneth Rasmussen, representing the Library club; Mrs. Clifford Lind, Improvement club; Mrs. Carl Abraham, Fremont Lions; Miss Freda Zuehlke, Junior High school; Mrs. Bernard Verdon, American Legion auxiliary; Edwin Sherburne, village board; and Dr. Walter Neuschaefer, Fremont Conservation league.

The Wolf River post of the American Legion and the chamber of commerce will elect their members at a joint meeting to be held at the village hall Tuesday evening. The library board will hold its first meeting Wednesday evening.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced by Fremont residents with water seeping into basements as the result of the recent rains and melted snow.

Men are engaged flagging tourists and draining hollow places on Highway 10 between Vevayuewa and Readfield which are overflowing.

Fremont junior high and state grade school Band Mothers, under direction of Miss Freda Zuehlke, school principal, have completed arrangements for a benefit public card party to be held Thursday evening at the village hall. Schafskopf and five hundred will be played. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

Finish Second Section Of Fence for Stadium

New London — The second 100-foot section of the native stone fence for the Hatten Memorial stadium was completed last week on the park WPA project. Crews are engaged in moving the enclosed wooden shelter for construction of the third section. The fence was started in the northeast corner of the field and is progressing southward toward the park's south gate.

Begin Installation of Stoker at High School

New London — Installation of the new boiler stoker at Washington High school was started yesterday by Oestreich and Ehrenreich, New London contractors. The local men are being assisted by factory representatives. It is expected the job will be completed in several days.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMMY

raise more pure hell than's been seen around here yet?"
She said wearily, "Perhaps."

"I suppose you think," I rushed on, "that the Dyaks are going to loot Mantusen and then you're going to swindle the Dyaks. Well, I'll tell you something about that. The Dyaks will never take one penny's worth of loot from Mantusen. If it comes to a finish, the Malays will smash up everything they have, and kill their wives and their slaves, and then rush out fighting juramentado. That's another thing your father should have known, and you too. Your damn fool get-rich-quick scheme has accomplished only one thing—it has probably cost the life of James Clyde."

"Mr. Thorne," she said faintly. "I swear to you, I would have stopped him if I had known. But he seemed so sure of what he was doing."

"We knew you were running guns," I said. "And we could see that you didn't know your business, nor anything about it. But naturally we didn't suppose you were turning the jungle upside down to no profit at all. The first we knew about it was when Mantusen showed us one of the Dyak guns."

"And Clyde walked straight into Mantusen's arms!" the girl said. "I can't believe it, even yet."
"It was a trap because you made it a trap, and then said nothing. Now I want to know what you people are up to here—and I need to know quick."
She sat motionless, leaning back in the canvas chair where James Clyde would rightly have been. Over her head our ragged strip of awning was marbled by rippling reflections from the sun-struck water; and that same uneasy, restless light was moving across her face, accenting her quiet.

"I tell you, I didn't know Clyde was going into the river. He said himself that the only thing to do was to pull out and take his cargo somewhere else. There were a dozen other places he could have landed his guns—the Sultan of Saramba would have paid him very high."

"You thought Clyde would simply up-anchor and run?"
"That was too much to hope for, of course. I supposed he would, loiter around here for days, perhaps weeks, arguing and complaining, and when he saw that he couldn't complete his own deal, try to edge in on ours, if he could find out what it was. How was I to know that he would go crashing up the Siderong like a headstrong child?"

"Headstrong child," I repeated. "You realize, of course, that he wouldn't have done it except for you."

Her head went up suddenly at that. She could have been no more startled if I had slapped her face. "Do you think that?"

"He had to give the Dyaks something to think about besides swarming over your yawl."

There was a silence. When she spoke her voice was low and intense. "I heard what you told the mate. I may not have understood you. But if I did, you are thinking of something you must not try. Not even the Linkang can live an hour in that river."

"I have No Choice!"
"I'll do it because I've got to do it. Nothing else is going to get Clyde out."

"But the guns—the guns—"
"Every gun you've put in their hands will be against me. I know that. I suppose you spent last night landing a lot more."

I could hardly hear her answer. "Yes."
"How many have you unloaded?"
"Two hundred and 28."
"It's too many," I said. "Still—it could be worse. It would be a lot worse if Dyaks could shoot. Thank God they close both eyes."

We'll just have to keep blasting at 'em and go on. But dear heaven, if you had only—"
"But," she said, white-faced, "these Dyaks can shoot."
I started to say that this was nonsense, that no Dyak ever learned to handle a firearm. But now I remembered the sniping from the jungle which had picked off 23 Malays, and I recalled what Mantusen had said. Mantusen had thought at first that Malays or white men must be handling the guns.

"Every one of those rifles," Christine Forrester said, "is in the hands of a man who can pick off an enemy at 500 yards."

"This was too much," I said. "That's absolutely and literally impossible for a Dyak."
"You don't understand," she kept saying. "You don't understand. I still have nearly 1,000 guns left in the hold of the Avon. I don't intend to unload them all—at least not now. But I came here prepared to arm 300 sharpshooters—every one of them a trained shot. And I have to go ahead and do it."

"You have to what?" I demanded incredulously.

"These are not my guns," Her lips were bloodless and twisted as she spoke. "These guns already belonged to anybody. My father promised them. They were already in the hold of the Avon when he died. I have to go on and carry out what he started to do. I tell you, I haven't any choice!"

I must have shouted at her then. "Are you insane? Are you going to keep pouring guns into this boiling—?"

"My father started this revolt," she said.

That stopped me. I said vaguely, "You father did what?"

"My father spent years of his life—his last years, organizing this and preparing for it. These tribes are raised up by years of patient work. If this attack breaks, the tribes that are up will be hounded into the farthest corners of the islands, until every last one of the leaders is destroyed."

I let that soak in for a minute. "There are quite a few people wandering around the islands," I said at last, "with nothing better to do than encourage a lot of unrest. Your father was known to be a queer character. I am not surprised to hear that he was also a nuisance. I must say, I can't see how that fact is going to help us here."
She drew in her breath as if for another of her quick outpourings of words; then she made a hopeless gesture with both hands and started again. "If I could talk to you for a week," she said wearily, "I could make you understand what is happening here. I could make you believe me. I could show you things that would force you to believe me. But there isn't any time for all that. I can only tell you exactly what is true, as quickly as I can. And you have to believe me, because if you don't, both you and James Clyde are finished."

Is Christine's fantastic story true? Read tomorrow's chapter.
